I. INTRODUCTION

1. The law firm Tyz Law Group, P.C., counsel for plaintiffs Moonbug Entertainment Ltd. and Treasure Studio, Inc., have retained me as an expert to provide analysis and insight into Animation industry practices and norms, including development, design, and production, and to provide opinions on these topics as they relate to the claims and defenses in this suit. Plaintiffs claim that Defendants Babybus Co. Ltd. and BabyBus (Fujian) Network Technology Co., Ltd. infringed their Copyrights. Defendants deny these claims.

2. My work on this matter is ongoing. This report summarizes my current opinions relating to Plaintiffs' claims, given the information available to date. If additional information is produced or otherwise made available, I may modify or supplement my analyses and opinions. I reserve the right to supplement or amend my analyses and opinions if additional information from such sources becomes available.

II. QUALIFICATIONS

3. I am a college professor and an internationally award-winning director of animated films. I have been working in the animation industry for twenty-three years. This work was performed on various productions including preschool television, shows for young adult and adult audiences, commercials, and documentary animation. I have held various positions in animation production across a wide range of duties, from starting positions like storyboard revisionist and assistant animator to leadership positions like showrunner, producer, and director. I have been teaching animation at the college and graduate level for eighteen years, at institutions including the California Institute of the Arts and New York University in subjects such as 3D animation, animation production, and storyboarding. I am also the New York Times bestselling author of "Deep Dark Fears", a collection of work gathered from my online comic of the same name. I currently have over one million followers across various social media platforms through my comics, animation, and art.

4. I am currently Faculty in the Character Animation Program at the California Institute of the Arts, consistently ranked as one of the best animation programs in the world, where I have been teaching since 2010. I am responsible for the animation production class taken by all first-year students, as well as animation production classes for the third-, and fourth-year students. I also collaborate with other faculty on curriculum, student reviews, and admission decisions.

5. My career in animation began with preschool and educational animation. I worked as an animator on the Reader Rabbit computer learning software in 1996-1997 and as an animator on the Nickelodeon preschool show "Blues Clues" from 1999-2000. In 2001 and again in 2007 I directed, produced, and co-created pilots of animated series for Cartoon Network. In 2003-2004 I worked at So! Animation as a 3D animator and 2D compositor for various commercial projects. From 2005-2007 I was an animator at Mechanism Digital, an animation studio that specialized in 3D animation and effects for commercials and documentaries. In 2007-2008 I was a key animator at Augenblick Studios for the Cartoon Network series "SuperJail!" In 2010-2011 I was the director and producer of hybrid animation / live-action shorts for Pixfusion of the "Domo" character. In 2012 I was showrunner for the YouTube series "Superf*ckers" by Frederator Studios. In 2013-2014 I was a storyboard revisionist for the Cartoon Network miniseries "Over the Garden Wall.” From 2019-2020 I worked on Cartoon Network’s series “The Fungies,” as a freelance storyboarder and a storyboard supervisor. Throughout this time, I have also worked as a freelance animator on short-term projects, with Buck Studios as an animator and compositor, with JWT as a 3D pre-visualization animator, with Oddfellows as an animator and compositor, with Cornell Weil Medical College as a 3D Animator, with Wachtenheim/Marianetti as a 2D traditional animator for Saturday Night Live shorts, and with National TV as a 3D animator. Since much of this case pertains to the production of animation, I have been glad to have experience in many different positions inside an animation studio, from crew jobs such as Storyboard Revisionist and Storyboarder to managerial positions such as Storyboard Supervisor, Director, Showrunner, and Producer.

6. While I have worked as a professional animator, I have also worked as a professor in the subject, both adjunct and full-time. I worked in the Foundation Department and Film Department at Pratt Institute from 2003-2008 where I taught introductory animation classes. In 2004 I was a Visiting Professor at New York University, teaching 2D animation compositing classes for undergrads and 3D animation classes for graduate students. In 2003 and from 2007-2010 I taught classes in 3D modeling and animation, and 2D animation at Mercy College. Since 2010, I have been teaching animation at the California Institute of the Arts, where I was the Associate Director of the Character Animation Program from 2014-2017.

7. I have an MFA in Interdisciplinary Art from Goddard College. I have a BFA in Film/Animation/Video from the Rhode Island School of Design. I have also studied in the MFA program in Studio Art at Queens College and in the Bridge program at the Munson-Williams-Proctor Institute.

8. I am the creator of the "Deep Dark Fears" comic series, which has over one million followers online and has been collected into a book that spent five weeks on the New York Times bestsellers list and was nominated for an Eisner Award. I directed and co-created two animated pilots for Cartoon Network, "Utica Cartoon" and "Upstate Four," which won first place in its category at the Ottawa International Animation Festival. I am the Director of the animated short film "Mister Smile", which was screened at over thirty festivals, and won prizes at the Ottawa Student Animation Festival, the USA Film Festival, and the Atlanta Film and Video Festival.

9. A copy of my current curriculum vitae, which summarizes my qualifications and professional experience, courses taught, and publications, is attached as Appendix 1.

10. [REDACTED] My compensation is not and will not be affected in any way by either the conclusions I have reached or the outcome of this lawsuit.

III. ASSIGNMENT AND INFORMATION CONSIDERED

11. As an expert in animation, and as a creator, director and producer of animated films with more than 23 years of experience in this industry and based on my review and analysis of materials in this case, I have been asked to assess issues relating to Plaintiffs’ claims in this case, examine related evidence, and provide my opinion on certain issues, including:

- a. Animation concepts and techniques relating to development of 2D and 3D animated videos directed at children, like CoComelon and Super JoJo;
- b. Distribution of childrens' videos on platforms like YouTube;
- c. Defendants' access to, use, and copying of CoComelon;
- d. Substantial similarity of Defendants' Super JoJo franchise, videos and characters to CoComelon;
- e. Defendants' claim of independent development of the JoJo characters;
- f. Elements of childrens' animated videos that relate to their success.

12. In addressing these issues and preparing this report, I have drawn on my many years of industry experience as set forth above. I have also considered information produced or exchanged in this litigation, including legal filings, deposition transcripts and exhibits, and documents produced in discovery. I have also spoken with Kate White and Marvin Lee. I have also considered publicly available information.

13. The materials and information that I considered in developing my opinions and preparing my report includes all materials listed in this report and its appendices, including Appendix 2 and Appendix 4. I understand that expert discovery is ongoing in this matter. I may consider further information produced by such discovery, including additional expert reports, transcripts, and any documents produced or otherwise made available, and supplement my analyses and opinions in response to such materials as necessary. I reserve the right to supplement or amend my analyses and opinions when additional information from such sources becomes available, and through any deposition.

14. I understand that certain deposition transcripts that I cite in this report have not yet been finalized, and so I cite to certain "Rough" deposition transcripts. I reserve the right to update this report in writing or at deposition to provide final deposition transcript citations as needed.

15. I reserve the right to create and use live demonstrations, animations, enlargements of real exhibits and other demonstratives to illustrate my opinions at trial and/or summary judgment.

IV. GENERAL BACKGROUND

A. CoComelon Background

16. CoComelon is a video series featuring animated short videos (and longer compilation videos) made for a preschool audience. CoComelon videos were first distributed on the YouTube video streaming platform. Videos on the CoComelon channel date back as far as

September 1, 2006.¹ Early on, this channel was called “checkgate” or “ThatsMeOnTV,”² then changed to “ABCKidTV,” and in August 2018, rebranded as “CoComelon.”³

17. Around March 2017, Treasure Studio began publishing videos featuring the now well-known CoComelon characters such as Baby JJ and his family.⁴ Today, CoComelon has 13 channels on YouTube, in 11 languages, and is also featured on multiple Moonbug Kids’ channels.⁵ CoComelon’s audience goes beyond YouTube, and is available on Netflix, Roku, Amazon Prime, the Cartoon Network, Instagram, Facebook, TikTok, and elsewhere. Though their earliest videos feature 2D animation, CoComelon is now mainly associated with 3D animated videos, and has become synonymous with a series of videos featuring a child named JJ, his older sister YoYo, older brother TomTom, his Mother, Father, and their dog Bingo, as well as a variety of animal character friends and stuffed animals.

18. CoComelon is currently one of, if not, the most popular preschool series in the world. It has more than 142 million subscribers on YouTube, making it not only the most watched children’s channel on the platform, but the second-most watched channel on YouTube overall. The CoComelon video “Bath Song” is the sixth-most-watched video of all time on YouTube with 5.59 billion views. Also in the top 20 most watched YouTube videos are the CoComelon videos “Wheels on the Bus” with 4.31 billion views and “Baa Baa Black Sheep” with 3.35 billion views. CoComelon videos are also available on Netflix, Cartoon Network, Amazon Prime, and Roku.

B. Computer Animation Background

19. All movies, whether animated or live action, consist of series of slightly different images. When these images are played back quickly, the viewer stops seeing them as individual images and they blend together to give the illusion of movement. While these series of images are produced with photography in a live-action video, they are artificially created in an animated video. This can be achieved through drawings, paintings, or computer-aided imagery.

20. 3D animation, also called CG (Computer Graphics) or Computer Animation, is a process of making animation aided by a computer. Three dimensional “models” of characters (people or animals), sets (environments or building) and props (objects), are created with a computer, and then those models can then be bent and posed by animators with further aid of the computer. The process of creating 3D characters is difficult, and one of the more time-consuming elements of 3D animation. This is because the creation of an animated 3D character requires the skills of several specialized artists, usually a character designer (who makes digital or traditional sketches refined in 2D digital paintings), a 3D Modeler (who takes the 2D design and creates a three dimensional sculpture of the character in a 3D computer program, such as Maya), a texture artist (who takes the solid gray sculpture of a 3D model and creates colors and textures on its surface), and a rigger (who takes the sculpture of the character and builds controls for an animator to use while moving it around). Because of this difficulty, these models often are re-used many times across many episodes in an animated series production.

21. Preschool animation has particular features that set it apart from other media. Unlike most media, it is not entirely chosen by the viewer, but at least partly by the viewer's guardians. Therefore, it must simultaneously be entertaining for the viewer while still being acceptable to the guardians. Secondly, preschool programming is generally designed to have an educational value in addition to its entertainment value, and those two elements must be carefully balanced to please both the viewer and the guardians.

22. Animated movies and short videos are not generally made by a single artist. Depending on the size and scope of a project, an animation studio could employ anywhere from a small group to hundreds of artists. Yet when successful, the final video will still feel like a unified piece from a single artist with a clear voice. Animation productions usually have teams of artists, with a director or leadership team guiding that crew through the production process.

23. In developing a new animated series, the creator needs a way to explain their ideas to their production team. In a small production with a small team, this can be done verbally, or with some initial sketches, visual examples, and team discussion. However, this approach is rare in large-scale productions because it places huge demands on the time of the creator and requires a lot of trust in the creative instincts of the crew. For most large-scale animated productions, documents are created to help describe the series and coordinate the team as they work together. The creator may create a document called a "bible" that is used to describe the unique ideas of the series. It may include sketches, designs, written descriptions, example stories, character descriptions, and other elements to help the whole team understand the series. Throughout production, the creator and the production team may refer to the "bible" to clarify elements of the story, characters, etc. When first starting a new series, the "bible" is also used to build enthusiasm about the new series. With its visual elements and written descriptions, it is also used to communicate the concept of the series to non-artists and can be used to convince people that might help secure the necessary funding to get the series started.

24. I'll summarize the normal steps of a 3D animated production here, but something to take note of is that, in general, a production team grows as the production proceeds. A production might start out small, with a single writer, then add a couple of designers, storyboarders, and a team of animators. This means that generally the biggest decisions regarding a production are made as early as possible, when the team is small and the production is the most flexible. For example, if the creator decides that the main character of an animation should be a purple octopus, it would be ideal to make that decision before anyone designs costumes.

25. Also, I'm going to describe each step as if each were a different job. In larger productions, artists tend to be more specialized. In smaller productions, they tend to cover multiple positions.

26. Development – The series is creatively defined. In the case of a small production, this definition may take place in an artist's head, a larger production may write a production "bible." What is it about? Who are the characters? Where does it take place? Entire episodes may not be fully scripted at this point, but short summaries of several episodes might be used to help explain the concept of the series. Development documents may be used to define the characters, world, possible stories, moods, personalities, and other elements of the show. In a large studio, such documents are necessary for the directorial team to explain a new show to their entire team of artists, to the management of the company, and other members of their company outside of the small directorial team.

27. Pre-Production – The planning for each episode. This may include:

- a. “Scheduling,” deciding how many artists the production can afford, and how many days or weeks they’ll have to make each episode. Since every object, character, set, or tree that is visible on screen in a 3D animation must be sculpted by an artist (or purchased pre-made) the schedule and budget constraints should be known before the writing happens, so the stories can be accomplished with the resources available to the team.
- b. “Writing” – creating a summary of the episode, a paragraph, a script, depending on how much detail is needed for the specific production. If the episode is based around a song, this is when the song would be chosen.
- c. “Asset Management” – identifying and creating (if needed) the elements needed for the animated video. Such assets could include things like a tree, a character, a funny dance performed by a puppy, or the interior space of a home, etc. These items need to be created in the first place if they don’t already exist, but once made, they can be reused in later episodes to save time and money. Production planners are usually familiar with past episodes and will often re-use their assets in new episodes. For instance, if the new episode takes place at a supermarket, but a previous episode took place at a farmer’s market, the sets (or parts of the sets) might be re-used to save effort.
- d. “Concept Design” – creating designs for elements (characters, objects, settings) that appear in a new episode and haven’t appeared before. A concept artist will create images that describe these new elements, often with sketches or digital paintings.

28. Production – This is the process of creating the animated video. It can include:

- a. Design – when concept designs are approved, the approved concepts are designed in more detail. Since the production is in 3D, this often means they are drawn at different angles to show them from every side.
- b. Modeling – the 3D modeler takes the designs and creates a 3D model based on the design. Think of it as a three-dimensional sculpture of that element, which can be rotated or posed by the animators.
- c. Texture – a texture artist paints the colors and textures onto the finished model. They may make parts of it shiny or dull, fuzzy or smooth.

- d. Rigging – one of the most labor-intensive parts of the production process. When a new character is created, the finished model is given a virtual “skeleton” so that it can be posed by the animators. For instance, if the character requires several different facial expressions, these will need to be added to the character so they are available to the animators. If the character has floppy hair, that hair will need to be given the required bounciness. The complexity of rigging a character is the main reason characters are often re-used (sometimes with small costume changes!) to save time and budget.
- e. Storyboarding – a series of images are created to tell the story. These images can help describe a camera position, the composition of the characters on the screen, their facial expressions, or the poses that they should strike. Storyboarding helps the animation to be specifically planned in a relatively quick way. It’s much faster to sketch out the posing of a few characters than to arrange them all in a 3D animation program. Though it might be fun to dive right into animation, and smaller teams might do just that, storyboarding gives the artists and supervisors in larger productions a chance to coordinate the direction of a series before the labor of animation is started.
- f. Key Pose Animation – using the storyboards as a guide, the animators arrange the sets (locations, settings, background elements) and pose the characters to match the storyboard panels.
- g. Animation – With the key poses in place, the movement between the poses is animated. Details like the facial expressions, lip movements, and other motions are added.
- h. Lighting – virtual lights are placed in the 3D scenes. If a set is re-used from a previous episode, the lights are ~~probably~~ often already set up, which helps save time.
- i. Rendering – up until this point, the animators have been working with low-resolution characters and/or low-quality images that are easier for their computers to render. For the final video, the computers make a high-quality image of each frame of the animation.

29. Post-Production – The final stage of post-production usually includes “Compositing” (adding subtitles, special effects, and other elements over the rendered animation), “Editing” (cutting together different shots and scenes to form the full video,” “Uploading” the video to an online platform like YouTube or delivering it to the distributor / network where it will be shown, and “Cataloguing” (saving a backup of the video and cataloguing the files and elements made for it so that props, characters, rigs, sets, animations, poses, facial expressions, and other elements can be re-used in future videos).

30. YouTube and Digital Publishing. YouTube is a website that allows its users to upload videos and share them with a worldwide audience. YouTube users can interact with the site both as viewers (watching videos) and as creators (uploading videos) to the site. Most users interact with YouTube for free, both to watch videos and to upload their own videos.

31. YouTube is the most popular site of its kind, housing well over a billion videos, with billions of viewings happening every day. YouTube allows its users to organize their videos in “Channels.” Unlike a traditional television channel, the videos of a YouTube channel are available for viewing on demand, at any time.

32. There are a number of ways creators can earn money on YouTube. Users who meet certain requirements are able to access multiple video monetization features inside YouTube.⁶ If such a user posts a video to YouTube, and it is seen by many people, YouTube provides to the user a percentage of the ad revenue raised by that video. Such users may earn money through monthly channel membership payments, use their video pages to sell merchandise, earn a portion of the fees paid by “Premium Subscribers” that watch their videos, among others. These features have enabled many users to develop lucrative businesses on YouTube, with the most viewed channels on YouTube each earning tens of millions of dollars annually.⁷ YouTube claims that it has paid thirty billion dollars to its user-creators over the past three years.⁸

33. A report made available by YouTube emphasizes that YouTube “lowers the barriers to entry” for creators to “share their videos and build thriving businesses,” and enables them to “bypass the traditional gatekeepers of media to produce content that reaches potentially large audiences across the country and around the world.”⁹ The report notes that successful YouTube creators are able to parlay their YouTube visibility to earn “off-platform” revenue from “other sources, including product sales, brand partnerships, or live performance engagements.” YouTube specifically emphasizes that the “platform’s global reach” helps creators find wider audiences than they could otherwise.

34. YouTube tracks the viewing history and habits of their viewers, using this information to suggest specific videos and to directly target commercials for individual viewers. Content that either YouTube or the creator identifies as “Made For Kids” is treated differently in certain respects, due to the certain U.S. laws, pursuant to which YouTube restricts personalized ads, comments, notifications and certain other features on channels tagged as Made for Kids.¹⁰ YouTube also has a curated YouTube Kids app that selects material made for kids and makes it available in different age-based profiles.¹¹

35. Although YouTube states that it does attempt to screen uploaded videos for copyright violations or objectionable content, it is difficult due to the number of videos uploaded to

YouTube. It is estimated that 500 hours of videos are uploaded to YouTube every minute of the day.¹² Because of this, YouTube relies on users to report objectional content, but apart from that, it allows the vast majority of videos on the site to remain in their original uploaded form.

36. I understand that copyright owners can request that YouTube take down content that violates their copyrights. YouTube states that when a copyright owner submits a proper takedown request against a video, YouTube will take the video down and issue a copyright strike to the user that uploaded the video.¹³ YouTube also states that when users accumulate three strikes, their account is subject to termination, all videos uploaded to their account will be removed, and they will be prevented from creating new channels.¹⁴

When viewers choose a video to watch, they are usually choosing among a selection of small rectangular “preview” pictures that represent the content of an available video. These are known as “thumbnails.”¹⁵ Often, the video creator will make a special image that will be used to entice viewers to choose the video for viewing. The following shows a “thumbnail” for CoComelon’s “The Color Song (with Popsicles)” on YouTube:¹⁶

37. Other streaming services and platforms make animated content available for children, such as Netflix, Amazon Prime Video, Roku, and other streaming services. However, these services generally are subscription based or require special hardware and so are not free to users, nor do they generally have the low barrier to entry for upload of content by creators, like YouTube. Creators can also distribute their works by developing and distributing an app through app stores such as the Apple App Store, Google Play app store, or Samsung Galaxy Store. Such apps may provide access to videos, or games featuring animated characters.¹⁷ A large presence

V. TIMELINE OF KEY EVENTS

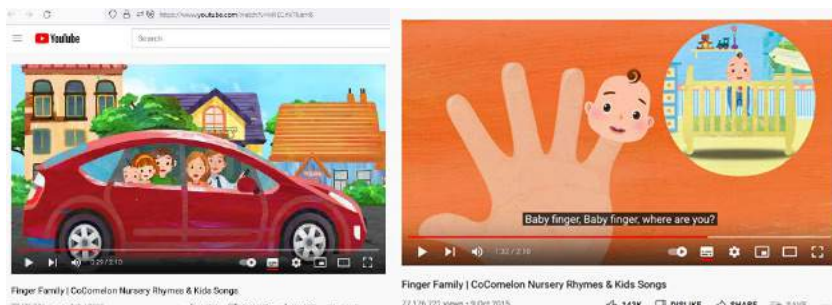

A. Treasure Studio, Inc.

38. Treasure Studio, Inc. was formed by Jay and Susan Jeon to create children's videos based on Ms. Jeon's original drawings. They posted an early short video called "ABC Song" to YouTube around September 1, 2006, and early videos on the channel focused on ABCs and phonics with colorful animated 2D images.¹⁹

39. Around 2014-2015, Treasure Studio's channel, then called ABCKidTV, started developing and publishing videos including nursery rhymes and more human and adult characters, rendered in 2D animation. The channel's characteristic visuals, which resembled paper cutouts with handpainted textures, reflected Susan Jeon's background in painting and childrens' books.

40. Around June 25, 2015, Treasure Studio published its video now entitled "Old MacDonald Had a Farm (2D)."²⁰

41. Around October 9, 2015, Treasure Studio published its video entitled "Finger Family," which featured a nuclear family of five, with an eldest brother, middle sister, and male baby character with a large rounded head with a slight flatter area above the ears, and a curl of hair in the center of his forehead.²¹

42. Around October 16, 2015, Treasure Studio published its video entitled "Baa Baa Black Sheep," which featured the same baby.²²

43. Around October 30, 2015, Treasure Studio published its video entitled “Johnny Johnny Yes Papa” which featured a young boy, his dad, and some animals singing the classic nursery rhyme Johnny Johnny Yes Papa, about a boy caught eating sugar.²³

44. Around January 13, 2016, Treasure Studio published its video entitled “Wheels on the Bus and Vehicles” which again featured a baby character with big round face, pink cheeks, and two front teeth, but now with a more substantial tuft of blondish hair in the center of his forehead.²⁴

98. After completing its competitive intelligence, Defendants prepared a December 27, 2018 file with the title “Summary of Competitor Channel IP 1228,” which surveys multiple preschool YouTube channels and lists CoComelon as No. 1.⁴⁹ When asked about the title of this document, Mr. Yan testified that IP means “Intellectual Property.”⁵⁰ This summary of competitor channel intellectual property contains multiple images from CoComelon – including a screen shot of the CoComelon family of characters, screen shots from multiple CoComelon videos, and the number of views for those videos. CoComelon is listed first and is shown as having the most views of all the channels shown. A different core family makeup is identified for every show on the list. According to Mr. Yan, CoComelon is the top competitor to BabyBus for the young children’s audience.⁵¹

99. BabyBus Targets CoComelon – BabyBus also produced a development document titled “BabyBus Young Kids’ Channel in 2019” with a last modified date of December 27, 2018.⁵² This document was written by the Leader of the BabyBus Planning Department, Xiangyin Lin.⁵³ The document describes BabyBus’ planning of its still-to-be-named Super JoJo videos.⁵⁴ In that document, under the heading titled “References,” BabyBus stated “Use the kids’ channel Cocomelon as the target setting.”⁵⁵ The BabyBus planning document then listed the “Cocomelon’s elements that meets the needs of toddlers.”⁵⁶ The document indicates that the family composition in the show should be “IP settings: A family (baby, father, mother, older brother, and older sister), pets, toys (immersive), and animals.” Based on my review of the Super JoJo videos, it is my opinion that BabyBus indeed targeted CoComelon, as it said it would, by copying expressive elements of the CoComelon Works and repurposing them in the Super JoJo Works.

100. BabyBus Focuses its Visuals on JJ – BabyBus also produced a Super JoJo development document with a file name that translates to “Young Children’s Channel” with a last modified date of January 25, 2019.⁵⁷ This document was used to convey BabyBus’ plan for its Super JoJo show and introduce that project to the production team and get others working on Super JoJo up

This plan includes images from and links to several CoComelon videos and instructed those working on Super JoJo development at BabyBus to focus on the visuals of CoComelon generally and CoComelon's JJ character specifically:⁵⁹

101. In addition, the January 25, 2019 “Young Children’s Channel” document mentions the name “Super JoJo” and provides a sparse sketch of the Super JoJo family members. This is the first reference to JoJo or image of the character that I have found in a BabyBus document. This document was created well after the documents I mention above in which BabyBus was screenshotting and targeting CoComelon and its characters. The planned main character, baby JoJo, is described only with an image and the text “JOJO, Main Character, A 1.5-year-old inquisitive baby” and a mention that “the baby likes to dance”. No description is given of their environment, setting, or any example episodes. There is one image of the Super JoJo family in the document, which is edited and re-used four more times on different pages of the document with the characters in different outfits. The design shown for JoJo in this document has a full head of hair with a distinctive wave-shaped peak in the front. This character design was not used in any Super JoJo videos.⁶⁰

102. Indeed, as above, BabyBus documents and testimony show that BabyBus was aware of CoComelon's JJ Character during the development of JoJo. BabyBus documents and testimony also concede that BabyBus used and referred to CoComelon in the development of the JoJo character. BabyBus cites CoComelon's video "Peek A Boo" as a document referenced when developing the JoJo character.⁶¹ In his capacity as a corporate representative regarding the development of JoJo, Lei Sun admitted in deposition that BabyBus was aware of CoComelon's JJ Character when designing and developing the JoJo character.⁶² Additionally, the three competitive intelligence documents prepared and detailed above, which include references or links to CoComelon videos and images of CoComelon's JJ character, were created prior to BabyBus' development of the JoJo character.⁶³

103. BabyBus designer Xiaohui Chen claims that the model of JoJo was made by starting with a purchased rig and then modifying its features to make the JoJo character.⁶⁴ Comparing this model with the JoJo model, it appears to me that significant portions of the rig were either replaced or entirely modified to make the JoJo model. For example, my comparison of the purchased rig⁶⁵ with an April 2019 JoJo rig⁶⁶ indicates the rig's control rigging was removed, its face, head, eyebrows and hair were either removed or entirely modified, and the body itself was changed around the shoulders, elbows, knees and navel to make the JoJo rig. Only the hands and feet and parts of the body usually hidden by clothes were relatively unchanged. The colors and textures of the model were changed as well. As such, the JoJo model is not recognizable as having come from the purchased rig.⁶⁷

⁶⁶ I understand that BabyBus made two productions of files without Bates numbers on two hard drives. I have been given and reviewed copies of both hard drives. Because the documents on the hard drives have no Bates numbers, only index numbers, I will refer to them here by a drive designation and the filename / filepath. The two hard drive designators will be BabyBus Prod. Vol. 017 (produced by BabyBus around September 9, 2022) and BabyBus Prod. Vol. HD (produced by BabyBus around September 27, 2022). The JoJo rig discussed here is located on the BabyBus Prod. Vol. HD drive at \TV_Diyoudyou\6.Model\A_BabyBus6_series\A_Main character\Baby\Baby_Rig_Fin.bmp (reference 18054) with a last modified date of April 27, 2019.

104. Super JoJo Production Planning Documents and StoryBoards. This is the portion of the development that focuses to the creation of character designs, storyboards, and assets needed for the animation, as well as the animation itself. My review has shown that BabyBus’ production development documents are full of copies, screenshots, images, and references from CoComelon.

105. Xiangyin Lin, Leader of the Planning Department at BabyBus and leader of the Super JoJo team through the first half of the production of Super JoJo videos, testified at deposition that she watched between 20-50 CoComelon videos while developing the Super JoJo series, and that it would be fair to say she watched a lot of CoComelon videos as part of planning the Super JoJo channel.⁶⁸

106. Hundreds of references to CoComelon have been found in BabyBus’ produced Super JoJo development documents, including copies of CoComelon videos, screenshots of CoComelon characters from CoComelon videos, and links to CoComelon videos, scattered throughout the Super JoJo development plans. Given that the production includes hundreds of thousands of development documents, and given that BabyBus changed the filenames of many CoComelon videos or excerpted or screenshotted them into BabyBus documents, it is impossible that I have found them all.

107. BabyBus’ documents show that in the spring of 2019 and beyond, BabyBus used CoComelon materials in making Super JoJo videos.

108. BabyBus claims it published its first video “Good Baby Washes Himself” on June 4, 2019.⁶⁹ The numerous copies of this video in BabyBus’ production⁷⁰ show that this video is essentially the same as BabyBus’ videos entitled variously “Jojo-007-洗漱好宝宝-英文-正片.mp4,”⁷¹ and “Jojo-007-洗漱好宝宝-英文-完整版.mp4,”⁷² the latter of which BabyBus has identified as “This Is the Way We Brush Our Teeth.”⁷³ A version of this video was published on YouTube as “This is the Way.”⁷⁴ Documents identified by BabyBus as development documents for this video show that multiple screenshots from the CoComelon video “This is the Way” were used in planning this video.⁷⁵ I also note that CoComelon’s “This is the Way” video is the video screenshotted and linked to in BabyBus’ January 25, 2019 “Young Children’s Channel” document, and that was identified as the “Focus of the Visuals” in BabyBus’ “Production Specifications” for the Super JoJo channel.⁷⁶

109. Around April 1, 2019, BabyBus made a planning document for a video called “Car Wash Song.”⁷⁷ This development document contains six screenshots from CoComelon’s videos, including four from CoComelon’s “Car Wash Song,” and two from Cocomelon’s “Laughing Song.”

110. Around May 29, 2019, BabyBus made a development document for its “Good Morning Song” video.⁷⁸ This document contained a YouTube link to the CoComelon video “This is the Way.”

111. Around June 2019, BabyBus worked on a video called “The Wound Hurts.” The planning document for this video states that “The scenes should be made as identical as possible to CoComelon,” and instructed the developers to “Mainly refer to this video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3YltYCrPZos&t=3s>,” which is a link to CoComelon’s “The Boo Boo Song” on YouTube.⁷⁹ The planning document also included screenshots from the CoComelon video with tracing on top of them.⁸⁰ BabyBus documents show that they created their version of this video by editing on top of a CoComelon video. BabyBus created a video that consists of CoComelon’s “The Boo Boo Song” video, but with a lyrically similar BabyBus song replacing the original CoComelon soundtrack.⁸¹ In the upper-left corner of this edited video, there is an inset drawn video that shows a bird’s-eye view of the set from JoJo’s house, with added drawings that detail where the characters and camera should be placed in order for BabyBus to precisely copy the CoComelon shots and compositions of the CoComelon Boo Boo Song. When asked in deposition why the storyboard for “The Wound Hurts” mostly consisted of screenshots from Cocomelon’s “The Boo Boo Song,” Lei Sun stated “Because we need to have regular weekly releases, but the story board team didn’t give us any feedback until very late, so the time was very limited. So there were such scenes in the storyboard and the time left for production was very limited. Everything was in such a rush.”⁸²

112. Around June 10, 2019, BabyBus also made an asset library that shows a list of 3D elements created for this Super JoJo video based on CoComelon’s “The Boo Boo Song.”⁸³ I have seen that these assets appear on prop lists for later videos.⁸⁴

113. Around June 12, 2019, BabyBus made three development documents for its “Doctor Checkup Song.”⁸⁵ Each of these documents contained a link to CoComelon’s “Doctor Checkup Song” video (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sM4IF7ZaKxo>) and four screenshots from it.

114. Around July 2, 2019, BabyBus made a planning document for a video called “Yes Yes Playground Song.”⁸⁶ Again, this planning document directs the developers to “Try to make the scenes as identical as possible to CoComelon,” and instructed them to “Mainly refer to <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KTOWPz-zMWY> (Yes Yes Playground Song)” which is a link to CoComelon’s “Yes Yes Playground Song” on YouTube.⁸⁷ Right below that, BabyBus wrote “[t]he scenes should be as similar as possible to Cocomelon.”⁸⁸ And below that, BabyBus wrote, “In Verse 3 and 4, Baby actively shows that he/she wants to play with a facility (with reference to the story in Cocomelon).”⁸⁹ Further, images in BabyBus’ planning document for its “Yes Yes Playground Song” are from CoComelon’s version, along with a textual description of the CoComelon video.⁹⁰

115. BabyBus published its video called The Boo Boo Song around July 9, 2019.⁹¹

116. Around June 11, 2019, BabyBus made a planning document for its video “Yes Yes Table Manners Song.”⁹² A machine translation of this document indicates it states the video should be as similar to CoComelon as possible, and a link is provided to CoComelon’s “Yes Yes Vegetables” song. Other development documents for this video show multiple screenshots from CoComelon’s “Yes Yes Vegetables” song, and “No No Table Manners” song, and a link to the latter. My review of this video shows that multiple poses and gestures were copied from CoComelon just as described in the planning documents.⁹³

A July 14, 2019 storyboard feedback document for this BabyBus video contained multiple screenshots commenting on the scenes of the BabyBus video, but the screenshots in the “Scenes” column come from the CoComelon video.⁹⁵ Around July 17, 2019, BabyBus made a planning video for Super JoJo’s “Yes Yes Vegetables” video that was composed of video copied from the CoComelon video “Yes Yes Vegetables.”⁹⁶ BabyBus admitted in deposition that its first “draft” of its “Yes Yes Vegetables” video was created from a copy of CoComelon’s “Yes Yes Vegetables” video.⁹⁷ Production leader Lin explained BabyBus’ use of the CoComelon video as a rough draft in deposition: “I believe this was a way for the story board department to save time and try to spend less effort in order to accomplish their job.” With the interpreter later clarifying that Lin “meant was for the story boarding department to do it in this way is the way of trying to slack off or be lazy.”⁹⁸

118. BabyBus published its version of “Yes Yes Vegetables Song” around August 6, 2019.⁹⁹

119. BabyBus published its “Car Wash Song” video around August 8, 2019.¹⁰⁰

120. Around April 8, 2019, BabyBus made a planning document for a video called “Bath Song.”¹⁰¹ This planning document contains six screenshots from CoComelon’s “Bath Song,” many of which include the CoComelon logo in the bottom right corner of the screenshots.¹⁰² BabyBus also produced a development document for its “Bath Song” dated December 16, 2019.¹⁰³ In this document, BabyBus writes “洗澡参考: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WRVsOCh907o>,” which is a link to CoComelon’s “Bath Song” on its CoComelon - Nursery Rhymes YouTube channel. 122. BabyBus published its version of “Yes Yes Playground Song” by around October 17, 2019.¹⁰⁶
123. Around October 24, 2019, BabyBus created a development document for its “Open Shut Them | Opposites Song.”¹⁰⁷ This document contained a YouTube link to CoComelon’s “Opposites Song” on two different pages, and two screenshots from that CoComelon video.
124. Around November 4, 2019, BabyBus made a planning document for its “Laughing Song” video.¹⁰⁸ The document contained a link to Cocomelon’s “Funny Face Song” <https://reurl.cc/NaZLLQ> and Cocomelon’s “The Laughing Song” <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zQCGxthVskw> as reference videos. The document also contained stills from CoComelon’s “Laughing Baby with Family” video (MB037910), another screen capture showing JJ, his brother and sister sitting bored in their treehouse, and five other screen captures from Cocomelon shorts depicting laughing.
125. BabyBus published its “Rainbow Ice Cream – Colors Song” video at least by November 20, 2019.¹⁰⁹ Comparisons of this video to CoComelon’s “The Colors Song (with Popsicles)” shows that the Super JoJo version copies the plot, storytelling sequence and story events of the CoComelon video frame by frame, along with its design, cinematography, shot structure, poses, layout, compositions, and acting choices. Tellingly, BabyBus posted a thumbnail image for this video on YouTube that showed the Super JoJo characters holding multicolored popsicles like those shown in the CoComelon thumbnail, even though there were no popsicles in the actual Super JoJo video:

126. Super JoJo planning documents from 2019-2020 contain hundreds of screenshots from CoComelon videos and/or links to CoComelon videos.¹¹² BabyBus' files also contain numerous copies of CoComelon videos.¹¹³

127. Super JoJo documents from 2019-2020 also show creation of assets in connection with videos based on CoComelon materials that were later reused in other videos.¹¹⁴

128. From June to December 2019, BabyBus published at least 50 videos on YouTube, including numerous videos identically titled to CoComelon.¹¹⁵

129. Around the Fall of 2019, Xunjie Zhang took over as the Leader of the Planning Department for Super JoJo.¹¹⁶ After taking over Super JoJo, Zhang oversaw a redesign of Super JoJo.¹¹⁷ This ostensibly included a re-design of the main characters, family home, props and visual elements of the Super JoJo series. In deposition, Zhang stated that she wanted to redesign the series's visual elements, "Because I wanted to make it more like a cartoon".¹¹⁸

130. As part of this redesign, in the fall of 2019 BabyBus considered redesigning the JoJo character and received multiple different prototypes for different expressions of a baby character.¹¹⁹ All of these were rejected in favor of a design almost indistinguishable from the existing JoJo character because “they did not match the animated feeling that was required by the planning team.”¹²⁰

131. Around April 7, 2020, BabyBus made a development document for its “Be Brave Baby JoJo” video.¹²¹ The document contained a YouTube link to CoComelon’s “You Can Ride A Bike” video, and contained two screenshots from that video.

132. Around June 15, 2020, BabyBus made development documents for its “One Potato, Two Potatoes” video.¹²² These documents contained links to CoComelon’s “One Potato, Two Potatoes” video.

133. BabyBus’ July 6, 2020, redesign document¹²³ shows new designs for every main character and setting in Super JoJo, with the characters having a more cartoony appearance. This can be defined as less realistic proportions (bigger head-to-body ratios) more caricatured and exaggerated features, and brighter colors. In the redesign document, the father becomes less obviously Asian, and Super JoJo is drastically re-imagined with a full head of hair and a bonnet.

134. By the fall of 2020, Super JoJo videos with the redesigned characters were completed and published on YouTube.¹²⁴ But while the new videos feature JoJo’s father, mother, sister, and brother with new designs from the redesign document, the redesign of the main baby JoJo character was watered down to the point of being barely noticeable.¹²⁵ In her deposition, Ms. Zhang explained that the new JoJo design “steered too much away from the original design and we were concerned whether the audience would be able to accept the new design. Maybe it will conflict with the existing conception or perception of the Super JoJo character in people’s mind. That’s why we did not use this version.”¹²⁶

135. Indeed, the new JoJo model dated October 30, 2020 is very similar to the prior JoJo model.¹²⁷ His design has been tweaked in several ways. His head is proportionally larger in relation to his body, and the top edge of his nose is a bit sharper to give a more button-like appearance. His hands are blockier, more cartoonish, and larger in relation to his arms. His feet have also become larger in relation to his legs. His wardrobe was redesigned to frequently include overalls with a star design. Despite these changes, he is still instantly recognizable as JoJo:¹²⁸

136. Even after publishing videos with the redesigned characters, BabyBus kept all its prior videos with the old characters up on YouTube. As explained, the baby JoJo character remained essentially the same and instantly recognizable as the same character across both sets of videos.

137. Around November 11, 2020, BabyBus made a development document for its “I Want to be a Firefighter” video,¹²⁹ featuring a screenshot of CoComelon’s JJ.

138. Around November 2020, Super JoJo videos begin to exhibit a more pronounced formula with many of their videos, including simpler stories, a small number of settings, a lack of original music, and dance numbers performed by the entire family. Though dance numbers sound like they might be more work, they are often used as a way to cut costs. Since all the family members perform the same dance steps and are placed in large open spaces, it is relatively easy to write, storyboard, set up the camera and lighting, and animate. The song lyrics also start to get quite repetitive around this point, with many episodes containing “It’s so fun” or “It’s so much fun” repeatedly in their lyrics. After this point, many episodes also incorporate simple flat backdrops or flat graphics behind the characters rather than 3D backgrounds. Examples include “Heads Shoulders Knees and Toes” BB_00047499 and “Little Doctor Song” BB_00047520.

139. Around February 19, 2021, BabyBus made a development document for its “JoJo’s New Friend” video.¹³⁰ This document contained three screenshots from Cocomelon’s “Hello Song” showing character poses and expressions similar to those later used in “JoJo’s New Friend,” and a link to a copy of Cocomelon’s “Hello Song” video hosted on the Bilibili website - www.bilibili.com/video/BV17b411e7MV.

140. Around April 21, 2021, Xiaohui Chen sent a text message to Xinfeng Lin, Jian Lin, Jianing Gao that reads, in part, “I recommended that in the future do not let people see so obviously that the reference video(s) are copied with no change made to them at all. 141. Around May 12, 2021 and October 18, 2021, BabyBus released Super JoJo applications on the Apple Play Store.¹³² Documents for the application state it contains more than 600 episodes of nursery rhymes and cartoons that can be downloaded for offline viewing, including Super JoJo.¹³³ The application is populated with Super JoJo videos and screenshots.¹³⁴

142. BabyBus has also released a “BabyBus TV: Kids Videos & Games” application and multiple Super JoJo games on the Google Play Store.¹³⁵ The “BabyBus TV: Kids Videos & Games” application information also refers to the app as “Super JoJo: Kids Songs & Videos.”¹³⁶ The app information states that it allows children to watch more than 600 episodes of kids songs and cartoons, including Super JoJo.¹³⁷ Screenshots on the information page feature Super JoJo.

C. Moonbug

143. Around July 30, 2020, Moonbug Entertainment Limited acquired Treasure Studio Inc. and took over management of the CoComelon YouTube channel.¹³⁸

144. Moonbug quickly launched a project to understand and codify the “CoComelon DNA” and create a “CoComelon Bible” to use in further development of the series.¹³⁹

145. In the second half of 2020, Moonbug began releasing versions of CoComelon videos in additional languages other than English.¹⁴⁰

146. Around June 2020, Moonbug launched CoComelon on Netflix, to include development of new original works for this platform.¹⁴¹

147. As of January 2022, CoComelon had over 3.6 billion views on YouTube, and was watched on Netflix for over 33 billion minutes in 2021, where it was also a Top 10 show for more than 100 straight days.¹⁴²

VI. LEGAL STANDARDS

148. I understand that to show infringement of a copyright, a plaintiff must show that it is the owner of a valid copyright and that the defendant copied original expression from the copyrighted work.

149. I understand that in a judicial proceeding, the certificate of a United States copyright registration made within five years after first publication of a work constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity of the copyright and of the facts stated in the certificate. I understand that to rebut that presumption of validity, a defendant must show that the work is not original. I also understand that a work is original if it was independently created by the author (rather than copied from somewhere else) and has a minimal degree of creativity. I also understand that a work may be original even if it resembles other works so long as the similarity is not the result of copying. For example, it is my understanding that if two poets write identical poems independently (without copying each other) those poems would both be original, and therefore copyrightable.

150. I understand that under copyright law, originality requires only that the author make the selection or arrangement independently (i.e., without copying that selection or arrangement from another work), and that it displays some minimal level of creativity.

151. I understand that a character is copyrightable when it has physical as well as conceptual qualities, is sufficiently delineated to be recognizable as the same character whenever it appears, and is especially distinctive and contains some unique elements of expression rather than being a stock character.

152. I understand that copyright infringement can be shown by direct copying.

153. Absent evidence of direct copying, I understand that copying can be shown by demonstrating that the defendant had access to the plaintiff's copyrighted work and that there are substantial similarities between the defendant's work and the plaintiff's copyrighted work.

154. I understand that to be substantially similar, there must be objective similarities in specific expressive elements in the two works, and an ordinary, reasonable observer must find the total concept and feel of the works to be substantially similar.

155. I understand objective similarity between two works can be shown by demonstrating articulable similarities between their plot, themes, dialogue, mood, setting, pace, colors, characters and sequence of events. I understand that generic plot ideas are not protected by copyright law, nor are "scenes a faire" that necessarily flow from a certain idea or premise. However, I understand that the particular sequence in which an author strings a significant number of unprotectable elements can itself be a protectable element, and the presence of many generic similarities and the common patterns in which they arise can establish objective similarity.

156. I understand that evaluating objective similarity between two works requires comparing only the protectable elements of those works, and filtering out and disregarding the unprotectable elements.

157. I understand that a defendant can only claim its copying is “de minimis” if the copying is so fleeting or trivial that the accused work is not recognizable as a copy to an average audience.

VII. OPINIONS

A. Moonbug’s Copyrights Are Valid and Enforceable

158. I understand that Treasure Studio has copyright registrations on the “CoComelon Works,” including the “CoComelon Video Works,” the “CoComelon 2D Art Works,” and the “CoComelon Song Works” as defined herein, and that all of those copyright registrations were made within 5 years after first publication of the respective works. Therefore, I understand that the presumption applies that those copyrights are valid and that all the facts stated in the copyright certificates are true. I understand that to rebut that presumption of validity, BabyBus must show that the CoComelon Works are not copyrightable. I also understand that to do that, BabyBus must show those works are not original, that is, that they were not independently created by the author (copied from somewhere else) and do not have even a minimal degree of creativity. As above, I understand that a work can be considered original even if it closely resembles other works so long as the similarity is not the result of copying.

159. I understand that BabyBus intends to argue that CoComelon’s characters and the CoComelon Works are not infringed because none of the elements of similarity identified between them are protectible or copyrightable. For example, I understand that BabyBus intends to argue that CoComelon’s character JJ is not protectible because certain of his features are nothing more than naturally occurring features common to real-life infants and media representations of infants, or not completely unique, or both.¹⁴³ Likewise, I understand BabyBus intends to argue that the CoComelon family characters and the CoComelon Works are not protectible based on their view that certain elements of their design, character, mood, theme, color, set and prop design, and look and feel, are not protectible. To support that conclusion, BabyBus individually addresses 121 elements of expression that I have considered and compared between CoComelon and BabyBus works, and claims that CoComelon’s use of that individual element is “not original,” “found throughout the genre” and “not protectible.” I disagree with this analysis.

160. To begin, I note that the Court in this case has stated that “Babybus’s argument that the alleged similarities are not protectable in copyright is implausible when analyzed in context with Moonbug’s 17-page letter to YouTube filed along with its DMCA notices that alleges frame-by-frame copying of Moonbug’s copyrighted videos and pervasive copying of thumbnail art, copying of the plot, setting, pace and sequence of events of other CoComelon videos,” and 80 pages of exhibits containing dozens of illustrative frame-by-frame screenshots and reference to numerous of Moonbug’s registered copyrights. McHale Decl., Exh. 5 at 5-15, 30-108. The similarities are numerous and detailed and transcend the basic elements of e.g., ‘anatomical features of human babies,’ and thus cannot sustain a fair use defense.” Docket No. 72, pages 9-10 at footnote 2.

¹⁴³ See BabyBus’ Seventh Amended and Supplemental Responses to Second Set of Interrogatories, First and Second Supplemental Responses to Interrogatory No. 10.

161. In addition, the Court stated that “Babybus’s allegations focus on the copyright protectability of individual features of Moonbug’s artworks and characters in isolation, but fail to consider that a copyright infringement claim can be based on a selection, arrangement, or combination of such features. The Ninth Circuit has acknowledged that even where individual similarities might be unprotectable, such as generic or scenes a faire elements, “[a] combination of unprotectable elements” can support an infringement claim “if those elements are numerous enough and their selection and arrangement original enough that their combination constitutes an original work of authorship.” Docket No. 72 at 16-17. Specifically, the Court cited caselaw stating that one must be “cautious not to overzealously decompose visual expression into its abstract, and thus unprotectable, units, because that would mean that any amount of taking ... would be permissible,” and noted that “Babybus’s attempt to isolate, focus only on certain aspects of Moonbug’s infringement allegations, and recast those allegations at a high degree of generality does not accurately describe the bases of the DMCA notices that Moonbug submitted.” Docket No. 72 at 17-18.

162. Following these teachings, it is my understanding that when I assess the original expression of a character or a work, and its protectability in copyright, I need not and should not look exclusively at each element of expression in isolation, but can and must consider the originality of such elements in combination, in their selection and arrangement, as that is what determines copyright protectability. Accordingly, I have classified 121 elements of CoComelon expression on which I base my analysis. These are divided into categories which I can use to illustrate the originality of CoComelon expression: JJ character physical and conceptual qualities (elements 1-29), CoComelon family characters physical and conceptual qualities (elements 30-57), and elements pertaining to the original expression CoComelon videos, including their distinctive look and feel (elements 58-102, including the CoComelon use of color, tone, design, themes), CoComelon cinematography (elements 103-108), Songs (elements 109-114), and elements of expression particular to specific videos, such as their subject matter, themes, plots, sequences, expressions, gestures, moods, and specific physical arrangements of characters and objects in scenes and videos (elements 115-121).¹⁴⁴ Analyzing the CoComelon characters and videos, and measuring them against these elements in various combinations (and individually in some cases), it is my opinion that CoComelon’s copyrighted characters (both JJ and the CoComelon family characters) and its copyrighted video works contain original and protectible expression.

163. Many of these elements can be assessed collectively, over the entire set of copyrighted CoComelon Works (elements 1-114), in addition to being assessed in certain individual works. For example, I can assess character, look and feel, cinematography, etc. in both individual videos or based on the set of copyrighted works. Each video may not cover or establish every single element of a CoComelon character or its characteristic total concept and feel. Rather, like episodes of a TV show, each video builds on the prior set of works and together they build a complete picture and understanding, which provides the audience's perception and understanding of the distinctiveness of CoComelon.

¹⁴⁴ The full list of the elements that I have analyzed and on which my infringement analysis are based are provided in Part 1 of Appendix 5.

164. Additionally, I understand that the CoComelon characters and CoComelon Works are the original work and expression of Treasure Studio individuals. I am also not aware of any evidence that they copied such expression from other works, and BabyBus has not identified any.

165. JJ. It is my opinion that CoComelon's JJ character is protectible because he has physical as well as conceptual qualities, is sufficiently delineated to be recognizable as the same character whenever he appears, and is especially distinctive and contains some unique elements of expression rather than being a stock character.

166. For example, it is my opinion that CoComelon's JJ character contains especially distinctive and unique elements in his physical expression. He has a distinctive-looking design, with large eyes, a chubby round head, and a small swooping tuft of hair above his forehead. He often wears a signature onesie at home or shorts and a t-shirt when outside, and frequently wears blue. As enumerated in Appendix 4, part 1, these elements are (1) his name, (2) shape of his large rounded head, with prominent cheeks and a slight flattening above the ears, (3) the one-color curling tuft of hair above is forehead hair, (4) thin rounded opaque eyebrows (5) extra-large eyes with rounded top lid and flattened bottom lid, large irises and pupils, (6) button nose with no bridge, (7) two front upper teeth, (8) thin lips on a mouth that is a half moon smile, (9) comparatively small body in relation to head, (10) and his characteristic yellow and turquoise pajama onesie at home or tan shorts and a t-shirt when outside. Although it may be true that other baby characters may have these traits alone or in combination, it is the way JJ expresses these traits, and the way these traits combine into a whole, that makes the character of JJ one that I consider distinctive, recognizable and original. Because we are talking about visual characteristics, it is difficult to express the subtleties in words, and instead show them in pictures: ¹⁴⁵

167. JJ is the central CoComelon character and the core of the CoComelon franchise. Since it was discovered that JJ created the greatest audience connection and replaced older brother Tom Tom as the main character, most CoComelon videos have featured JJ. The roles of the family members have developed around him, and their roles have come to focus on supporting JJ and his development. Likewise, the scenes and settings of the show have developed to focus on activities for a child of JJ's age.

168. JJ's character was brought to life and developed through the registered videos, which add to our knowledge of him as a character. We see JJ overcoming his fear of the water as he learns to swim with his family. We see him being nursed through his cold by his caring parents. We see him using his arts and crafts skills to tell us what he's thankful for. We see him pretend to be a doctor and a bus driver, and dream of being a firefighter. We see him nervous on his first day of school, and we see him enjoying a game of hide and seek with his parents. We get to know JJ as a clever, curious, and helpful kid, who likes to sing and dance, learn the rules of the world, and spend time with his family. Though he can be briefly launch into a "No No No" response, he always relents and learns something new in the end. JJ is a very consistent character with the same personality and attitude throughout the Cocomelon stories.

169. In my opinion, the changes made to the CoComelon models (including JJ) in the fall of 2017, which replaced the model's hand painted looking textures with more realistic textures and modified the rigging of the JJ model, did not significantly impact the elements I describe above. JJ is easily recognizable as JJ in both versions:

MB037926 (No No Playground Song)

MB037910 Laughing Baby With Family

170. The character of JJ is reflected and developed in all of the registered CoComelon Video Works.

171. I understand that BabyBus intends to argue that JJ's physical expression cannot be original because other baby images (and real babies) share some features that could be described using the same text used in my high-level descriptions of JJ's expressive features (e.g., that a prior baby character has been depicted with a "large rounded head," for example). But I do not think viewing the elements in isolation, at such a high level of generality, is meaningful. For example, focusing narrowly on the question of whether a character exhibits a short checklist of highly general features (big head, tuft of hair, big eyes, half moon smile) would lead to the nonsensical conclusion that the following characters are not unique expression because they share a few visual characteristics.

172. I understand that BabyBus has identified a number of animated and media representations of babies that they suggest all share four physical features of CoComelon's JJ, such as a "Big Head," "Big Eyes," "Tuft" of hair, and "Half-Moon Smile," and as such render JJ uncopyrightable.¹⁴⁶ I disagree.

¹⁴⁶ BabyBus' October 18, 2022 Seventh Amended And Supplemental Response to Plaintiffs' Second Set of Interrogatories, Responses to Interrogatory No. 10, at 7.

173. First, BabyBus provides no evidence that CoComelon's JJ is a copy of (or even inspired by) any of these characters.¹⁴⁷

174. Second, JJ is a unique physical expression compared to all of these character images. JJ's features are unique. He has a large head, but his head is also round, and when seen from the front, a slight flatter area above the ears. This helps to give him a chubby-cheeked appearance. He has big eyes, but they also have big pupils. The eyes are far apart, but they are not pushed to the edges of the head. They have a slight indentation below them to give him a more "chubby cheeked" appearance and help accentuate his smile. His tuft of hair is solid and does not appear as individual strands of realistic hair. His hair has a prominent curl. He has a button nose with no prominent bridge, with the nostrils just visible when seen from the front. He has a half-moon shaped smile, with subtle lips. His only teeth are the two in the top front. He has brown eyebrows that are solid shapes like his hair. They do not appear to be made of individual realistic hair strands. The way these features are expressed in JJ's design is entirely unlike all the examples in the defendant's list. (see Appendix 4, Part 1, elements 1-10).

175. I note that BabyBus employee Xiaohui Chen has also testified that minor changes in physical features of a character can make significant differences in the aesthetics of a character. Commenting on multiple "trial versions" of the visual look for Super JoJo's character, Chen testified that they were all rejected for failing to "match the animated feeling that was required by the planning team" and agreed that they show "different expressions of a baby character."¹⁴⁸ Similarly, BabyBus' Planning Department leader Ms. Zhang said she redesigned JoJo when she came in, but most of the changes were rejected out of concern that an altered character would not be commercially successful like the existing JoJo.¹⁴⁹

176. Third, JJ has multiple conceptual qualities that have been developed in the copyrighted CoComelon Video Works (see Appendix 4, Part 1, elements 11-29). As each video (which can be viewed as an episode of a TV show) has built on prior episodes, this full range of JJ's conceptual characteristics and personality has developed over the course of the copyrighted video works, which taken together provide the audience's understanding of the character. And I understand that BabyBus has not contended that JJ was copied from any other pre-existing character.¹⁵⁰ Based on both my experience and review of the copyrighted videos, JJ's personality stands out as unusual in preschool programming - though he appears to be a young baby, wearing a bib and being fed in a highchair, he also walks on two legs with ease, dances, speaks in full sentences, sings, and seems to understand all that is said to him. JJ is the undisputed central character of the CoComelon series, its shining star and most beloved character, and the core of the show around which all the other characters and videos revolve. Generally, JJ is depicted as a completely ideal child, and he and the rest of the characters exhibit a similar, narrow range of positive emotions, avoiding tantrums and other negative behavior demonstrations that children might imitate. In my opinion, JJ's expression of both physical and conceptual characteristics, grouped together, makes the JJ character recognizable whenever he appears, distinctive and unique, rather than being a stock character. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]¹⁵¹ I am not aware that BabyBus has identified any baby character that shares all of JJ's qualities described above. To the extent that BabyBus makes any such arguments in future, or identifies any such character, I reserve the right to respond to those arguments.

177. CoComelon Family Characters. Like JJ, it is my opinion that JJ's nuclear family members in CoComelon – his mom, dad, oldest brother Tom Tom, older sister YoYo – have persistent, recognizable, distinctive, and unique conceptual and physical qualities. The family is depicted as light-skinned characters with rounded faces and body shapes, eyes, lips, noses and other facial features, chunky hair and hairstyles.¹⁵² Although JJ is the main character and core of the show, the family is tightknit and engages in extreme cooperation in performing repetitive tasks, and the parents and other children fully support JJ's development in various videos by helping him learn and perform new tasks. JJ's siblings are clear characters. He has a quick-witted older sister who never gives up, whether she is learning to ride a bicycle, or trying to teach her baby brother to use the slide at the playground. JJ has a considerate and thoughtful older brother, who will patiently help his baby brother take a bath or brush his teeth, but is also happy to make funny faces. JJ's siblings are unusually patient and kind. They each often function as caregivers to JJ.¹⁵³ JJ's father is goofy, playful, and loving, at times functioning in similar roles and actions as the children, but also attentive and kind to his children.¹⁵⁴ JJ's mother is shown as a constant source of clever and creative activity, a passionate and cheerful caretaker of the family, and a realistic and relatable character. She can be crafty and inventive when it comes to teaching her kids the lessons they need. Together, JJ's parents demonstrate affection for each other that is realistic, sweet, and often absent in other preschool entertainment, but adds warmth and realism to the family.¹⁵⁵ The family is unflaggingly wholesome and idealistic, always available to play together, dance together, and patiently instruct the children in necessary life skills.¹⁵⁶ The family also includes a family dog named "Bingo," and a cast of animal characters who dance and play with the family in their adventures and "help" the parents instruct JJ and his siblings in life lessons.¹⁵⁷

178. These physical and conceptual characteristics of the CoComelon family characters have been developed through the CoComelon works and are enumerated with a high level textual description in Part 1 of Appendix 4 (elements 30-57). I understand that BabyBus has argued that each of the high level textual descriptions of these elements – individually and in isolation -- represents an element of expression that is common to the genre of children's videos or not original. But it is my opinion that BabyBus' focus on the general textual descriptions at a high level of generality ignores the actual content of the CoComelon audiovisual works, which contain a more nuanced depth of expression than words can describe. Also, I am not aware that BabyBus has made any argument that CoComelon's selection and arrangement of these expressive elements is unoriginal, non-distinctive, or not recognizable, either alone or in combination with other elements of CoComelon's expression that I have enumerated. To the extent that BabyBus makes any such arguments in future, I reserve the right to respond to those arguments.

179. Look and Feel. It is my opinion that CoComelon has a distinctive and original look and feel, comprised by its use, selection, arrangement and expression of elements such as color, mood, theme, set design, plots, animation and movement style, use of music dance, as developed in the copyrighted CoComelon works. CoComelon works feature animation with bright colors and soft edges, Color palettes with bright primary and secondary color design, and characters and objects are depicted without sharp edges. They follow a mood that is idealized, peaceful, calm. Although there is humor and slapstick in the episodes, it is never mean-spirited. The characters employ a melodic quality when speaking. CoComelon episodes are centered around the character JJ, with themes that focus on events in the day of a baby and encountering life's issues, and themes of family love, happiness, curiosity, everyday chores, self-care, nutrition, literacy, and communication. The characters are mainly happy or neutral in mood, never mad, excessively scared, or overly agitated, and discontent is always mild and passing, connected to a particular narrative structure. With combinations like this, the episodes are able to provide rich sensory stimulation and a joyous experience in comforting and safe environment for exploration.

180. CoComelon episodes focus on daily activities of young children, emphasizing everyday interactions between JJ and his family, and on JJ's experience of life and the world, mainly from the vantage point of family and home. JJ is often encouraged to engage in given activity or experience with assistance and encouragement from his siblings and parents. For example, a video might narrate an everyday activity such as brushing teeth or getting injured, using a narrative structure wherein the main character and/or other members of the family participate in (or confront and overcome) a repetitive sequence of related everyday challenges in the course of the song. Everyday activities are narrated with repetitive sequences of related challenges. CoComelon episodes are full of depictions of children and parents playing, singing, and dancing together, and often elaborate dance choreography is regularly performed by all the children with equal skill, regardless of age, even baby JJ. CoComelon videos also use some predictable patterns in their visuals, and songs, focusing on daily life activities to pursue these themes. There are realistic and generally non-exaggerated visuals to draw the attention of and resonate with children, and repeated gestures and dance moves. Individual videos are based on songs of about 2-3 minutes in length. Episode scenes are carefully matched to verses of songs. The songs have simple, repetitive, rhyming lyrics with added sound effects, such as children's laughter, and often feature questions and answers in a sing along format. One series of CoComelon videos uses a particular song structure using a "Yes Yes" or "No No" title and repeated "Yes Yes" or "No No" lyrics, dealing with a particular activity or experience and how JJ is persuaded in steps to enjoy the experience through the encouragement of his siblings or parents. Subtitles incorporated into the design, with words displayed at the bottom of the screen in changing color.

181. CoComelon employs a particular observational, gentle, and playful animation style. The bodily movement of the characters is often used very expressively, to communicate very specific thoughts and emotions, such as the way JJ often throws his arms in the air when he is excited or says “wow!” The quality of their movement is distinctive in that it shows a sense of realism and observation. The characters move in a way that makes us feel that they are real living characters with thoughts and feelings. A prime example of this is “Rock-a-Bye Baby” MB_0037952 where we see a loving, caring mom, but also a mom that is exhausted and wants to sleep. This abstract feeling is shown in poses, the timing of her movements, and the way she interacts with her baby. As described above, the characters are modeled in a distinctive manner, using a certain shape language, set of textures, rigging, and 3D animation style. CoComelon uses those choices to enable precise character acting and movement of the characters in the episodes, which is unusual in preschool animation, and the animation style enables specific repeated character poses and facial expressions that are reused in numerous episodes.

182. Many of the CoComelon videos and stories take place in a house and whose brightly furnished rooms and spaces are organized for play and idealized for a children’s perspective in their design choices, such as the imaginative backyard treehouse with kid-made decorations and dinosaur murals, or the unusually colorful appliances in the pink, green and orange kitchen. JJ’s love of aquatic creatures is reflected in the giant sea creatures painted on the playground, and the whale designs in his bedroom. The environment displays creativity even in background elements that most viewers will never notice, but would miss if they weren’t there. Cocomelon uses persistent and recognizable designs and arrangements for the kitchen, bathroom, living room, yard, blue car, baby bedroom, sibling bedrooms, playroom.¹⁵⁸ CoComelon features persistent designs for the children’s stuffed animals, which also appear in other incarnations as anthropomorphic animal friends.

183. These “look and feel” characteristics of CoComelon works have been developed through the CoComelon works and are enumerated with a high level textual description in Appendix 4, part 1 (elements 58-102). I understand that BabyBus has argued that each of the high level textual descriptions of these elements – individually and in isolation -- represents an element of expression that is common to the genre of children’s videos or not original. But again, I am not aware that BabyBus has made any argument that CoComelon’s selection and arrangement of these expressive elements is unoriginal, non-distinctive, or not recognizable, either alone or in combination with other elements of CoComelon’s expression enumerated here. To the extent that BabyBus makes any such arguments in future, I reserve the right to respond to those arguments.

184. Cinematography. It is my opinion that CoComelon employs a distinctive and original cinematography style comprised by its use, selection, arrangement and expression of elements such as edit pacing, camera composition, shot distance, used of lenses, camera movement and lighting as developed in the copyrighted CoComelon works. Specifically, CoComelon’s cinematography style includes deliberate pacing of edits that are often cut to match the lines and verses of the accompanying songs, giving the animation a sing-song pacing that is relaxing but engaging (shots are generally of short or medium length), specific shot composition (heavily featuring low subjective angles, and very rarely going above eye-level), preferred distance of shots (mostly close-ups, some medium shots, and very rarely long shots), predominant use of wide angle camera lenses, and the frequent use of camera movement, such that camera movement is incorporated in most shots. CoComelon uses mostly soft, indirect lighting in its shots.

185. These cinematography characteristics of CoComelon works have been developed through the CoComelon works and are enumerated with a high level textual description in Appendix 4, part 1 (elements 103-108). I understand that BabyBus has argued that each of the high level textual descriptions of these elements – individually and in isolation -- represents an element of expression that is common to the genre of children’s videos or otherwise not original. But again, I am not aware that BabyBus has made any argument that CoComelon’s selection and arrangement of these expressive elements is unoriginal, non-distinctive, or not recognizable, either alone or in combination with other elements of CoComelon’s expression enumerated here. To the extent that BabyBus makes any such arguments in future, I reserve the right to respond to those arguments.

186. In my view, the various expressive elements that are brought together in the CoComelon storytelling and animation create an original CoComelon look and feel, that together with the original characters of JJ and his core family, and the other elements enumerated above, make the total concept and feel of CoComelon distinctive, recognizable, and enjoyable to its audience. CoComelon developed this special and winning combination of elements independently, through trial and error, brick by brick, through the hard work of its team of artists.

187. My opinions that CoComelon contains original and distinctive expression are buttressed by documents showing that both parents and children recognize CoComelon and its characters as sufficiently delineated and recognizable to the ordinary viewer. Numerous viewers have posted online and reached out to CoComelon to let it know that JJ is their favorite character, such as “My little girl is a big fan of JJ” and my son “loves JJ.”¹⁵⁹ [REDACTED] or posted such comments online: “Fellow parents: I’m sure your kids had or are currently deep into CoComelon but have you all seen this blatant rip off called Super JoJo? They’re not even trying to hide that they’re stealing content from them. How is this not a bigger deal in the children’s content game?!”.¹⁶⁰

188. In summary, I do not agree that CoComelon’s combination of expressive elements is merely generic or dictated by the children’s entertainment genre, and reserve the right to respond to any evidence put forward on that topic by BabyBus.

B. The Accused Super JoJo Works Infringe CoComelon’s Works

189. It is my opinion, having reviewed the documents produced in this action, including the CoComelon Works, BabyBus’ development documents, BabyBus’ Super JoJo videos produced in this action, as well as deposition testimony, that BabyBus copied the CoComelon Works to create BabyBus' Super JoJo Works.¹⁶¹

190. It is my opinion that the Super JoJo YouTube Channels,¹⁶² and all the Super JoJo Videos¹⁶³ on those channels, are substantially similar to the CoComelon Works. BabyBus created its Super JoJo YouTube channels to be just like CoComelon's, and then populated those channels with video episodes that were direct copies and substantially similar to CoComelon Video Works, with substantially similar characters and substantially similar total concept and feel compared to the CoComelon Video Works. As discussed throughout this report, BabyBus' plan when it developed Super JoJo was to copy CoComelon's total concept and feel, target CoComelon's setting, focus the Super JoJo visuals on CoComelon's main character JJ, and make Super JoJo Videos as identical as possible to CoComelon. It is my opinion that BabyBus did just that.

Early Development of Super JoJo

191. As discussed above, prior to developing Super JoJo, BabyBus gathered competitive intelligence that identified CoComelon as its top competitor.¹⁶⁴ BabyBus then set out to "[u]se the kids' channel Cocomelon as the target setting" and created a document to train those working on Super JoJo development that CoComelon should be the focus of the visuals for Super JoJo.¹⁶⁵ In my opinion, based on my review of early Super JoJo videos, BabyBus indeed did what it set out to do and copied CoComelon.

192. As described above, Defendants' documentation and testimony make clear that Defendants' aim and goal for their Accused Super JoJo Channels was to copy CoComelon's entire show and its episodes, down to the tiniest details. To that end, Defendants deliberately copied the look and feel of CoComelon, the characters of CoComelon, the story setting and plots of CoComelon, and the camera angles and movement, length, duration, visuals, sounds, poses, ¹⁶¹ The "Super JoJo Works" accused in this action (also called "Accused Super JoJo Works") include "Super JoJo Videos" (also called "Super JoJo Video Works" or "Accused Super JoJo Videos"), "Super JoJo Channels" (also called "Accused Super JoJo Channels," which include any channels on which BabyBus aggregates, displays, distributes, advertises, or makes available (or causes to have done) the Super JoJo Videos, and which include "Super JoJo YouTube Channels"), and "Super JoJo Apps" (also called "Accused Super JoJo Apps," such as Apple or Google platforms).

facial expressions, and more. Defendants admit that their intention and plan was for their channel to copy the look and feel of CoComelon.¹⁶⁶

193. To effectuate this plan, BabyBus made extensive copies of CoComelon materials. BabyBus' files and documents produced in this case contain volumes of screenshots of CoComelon videos, links to CoComelon videos on YouTube, and downloaded copies of entire CoComelon videos. As described above, those CoComelon videos were studied, cut up, marked up, traced over, and used as the rough drafts for Super JoJo videos.

194. In my opinion, the entire Super JoJo franchise is a copy of CoComelon, and is substantially similar to CoComelon in its central character, family makeup and dynamic of the secondary characters, settings, stories, and total concept and feel. In my opinion, the level of copying in the characters, settings, and look and feel alone is so striking as to make it clear that any Super JoJo Video containing the Super JoJo characters and settings is substantially similar to CoComelon.

The Boo Boo Song

195. It is my opinion that BabyBus' "The Boo Boo Song"¹⁶⁷ is a copy of CoComelon's "The Boo Boo Song."¹⁶⁸ My opinion is based on both the evidence of direct copying produced in this Action and my assessment after comparing the videos produced in this matter that the two videos are substantially similar.

196. Development Documents. BabyBus produced a planning document for its "The Boo Boo Song" dated June 18, 2019.¹⁶⁹ On the first page of the planning document, under the heading "Animation focuses," BabyBus wrote that "[t]he scenes should be as similar as possible to Cocomelon" and just under that said to "[m]ainly refer to this video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3YltYCrPZos&t=3s>." The link BabyBus said to mainly refer to goes to CoComelon's "The Boo Boo Song" on its Cocomelon - Nursery Rhymes YouTube channel.¹⁷⁰ Further, images in BabyBus' planning document for its "The Boo Boo Song" are from CoComelon, with the text "JoJo" in red placed in the upper left corner of each image:

197. BabyBus also produced a modified version of CoComelon's "The Boo Boo Song" that it used to create its copycat video of the same name.¹⁷³ This BabyBus video consists of CoComelon's "The Boo Boo Song" video, but with a lyrically similar BabyBus song replacing the original CoComelon soundtrack. In the upper-left corner, there is an inset drawn video that shows a bird's-eye view of the set from JoJo's house, with added drawings that detail where the characters and camera should be placed in order for BabyBus to copy the CoComelon cinematography, including particular shots and compositions. An example screenshot of BabyBus' video is below¹⁷⁴:

198. Comparison of Videos. I reviewed both BabyBus’ “The Boo Boo Song” and CoComelon’s “The Boo Boo Song” and it is my opinion that BabyBus made the scenes “as similar as possible to Cocomelon” as BabyBus planned. Screenshot comparisons of the two videos are attached to this report as Appendix 5. In my opinion, BabyBus’ “The Boo Boo Song” are not only substantially similar, but that BabyBus’ video is a near replica of CoComelon’s “The Boo Boo Song” that copies expression that includes the videos design, cinematography, shot structure, story events, storytelling sequence, poses, layout, compositions, and acting choices. A detailed list of CoComelon expression copied by BabyBus’ “The Boo Boo Song” can be found in Appendix 4.

199. Accordingly, BabyBus’ “The Boo Boo Song” infringes at least U.S. Copyright No. PA0002181622 (The Boo Boo Song). For the reasons described below and in Appendix 4, it also infringes CoComelon copyrights as detailed in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 1.

Yes Yes Vegetables Song

200. It is my opinion that BabyBus’ “Yes Yes Vegetables”¹⁷⁵ is a copy of CoComelon’s “Yes Yes Vegetables Song.”¹⁷⁶ My opinion is based on both the evidence of direct copying produced in this Action and my assessment that the two videos are substantially similar.

201. Development Documents. BabyBus produced a planning document for its “Yes Yes Vegetables” dated June 20, 2019.¹⁷⁷ On the first page of this planning document under the heading “Animation focuses” reads “[t]ry make the scenes as identical to Cocomelon as

202. BabyBus also produced a modified version of CoComelon's "Yes Yes Vegetables Song" that it used to create its copycat video.¹⁸² This BabyBus video mostly consists of CoComelon's "Yes Yes Vegetables Song" video, but with various elements drawn over top. An example screenshot of BabyBus' video is below¹⁸³:

203. BabyBus' leader of the planning team for this Super JoJo video, Xiangyin Lin, explained that BabyBus used CoComelon's video "to help with the scene presentation" of BabyBus' knockoff video.¹⁸⁴ When asked what she meant by that statement, Ms. Lin said that BabyBus used the CoComelon video as "a way for the story board department to save time and try to spend less effort in order to accomplish their job" because they were "trying to slack off or be lazy."¹⁸⁵

204. BabyBus also produced a planning document for its "Yes Yes Vegetables" with a last modified date of July 14, 2019.¹⁸⁶ Most of this BabyBus planning document consists of two columns. In the first column, with the heading "Scene," BabyBus has images from CoComelon's "Yes Yes Vegetables" that it labeled as "Vegetables712roughdraft.MP4."¹⁸⁷ In the second column, under the heading "Modification Suggestion," BabyBus provides a

205. Comparison of Videos. I reviewed both BabyBus' "Yes Yes Vegetables" and CoComelon's "Yes Yes Vegetables Song" and it is my opinion that BabyBus made the scenes "as identical to Cocomelon as possible" as BabyBus planned. Screenshot comparisons of the two videos are attached to this report as Appendix 6. In my opinion, BabyBus' "Yes Yes Vegetables" is substantially similar because it copies expression that includes the videos design, cinematography, shot structure, story events, storytelling sequence, poses, layout, compositions, and acting choices. A detailed list of CoComelon expression copied by BabyBus' "Yes Yes Vegetables" can be found in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 1.

206. A comparison of BabyBus' "Yes Yes Vegetables" with CoComelon's "Yes Yes Vegetables Song" is also a good example showing that the design of Babybus' JoJo character is nearly identical to Cocomelon's JJ. Both characters were built, rigged, and rendered using the Maya 3D animation computer program. Both characters also share large, round heads, large eyes with rounded upper lid and flattened lower lid, small bridgeless nose, single tuft of hair above the forehead shown as a solid mass, rosy cheeks, light skin, chubby cheeks, solid eyebrows, two upper front teeth, and blue and yellow onesie. All these elements share the same forms of expression, to the point that both characters appear nearly identical, as the comparisons below show:

207. Accordingly, BabyBus' "Yes Yes Vegetables" is substantially similar to, and therefore infringes, at least U.S. Copyright Nos. PA0002159137 (Yes Yes Vegetables Song) and PA0002149483 (Yes Yes Vegetables Song). For the reasons described below and in Appendix 4, it also infringes CoComelon copyrights as detailed in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 1.

208. When BabyBus gathered competitive intelligence on its competitors in a document dated December 2013, CoComelon's "Yes Yes Vegetable" was the 3rd top CoComelon video and the 7th top YouTube video.¹⁹⁰

Yes Yes Playground Song

209. It is my opinion that BabyBus' "Yes Yes Playground Song"¹⁹¹ is a copy of CoComelon's "Yes Yes Playground Song."¹⁹² My opinion is based on both the evidence of direct copying produced in this Action and my assessment after comparing the videos produced in this matter that the two videos are substantially similar.

210. Development Documents. BabyBus produced a planning document for its "Yes Yes Playground Song" dated July 2, 2019.¹⁹³ On the first page of this planning document under the heading "Animation focuses" reads "Mainly refer to <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KTOWPz-zMWY> (Yes Yes Playground Song)" The link BabyBus said to mainly refer to goes to CoComelon's "Yes Yes Playground Song" on its Cocomelon - Nursery Rhymes YouTube channel. Right below that, BabyBus wrote "[t]he scenes should be as similar as possible to Cocomelon."¹⁹⁴ And below that, BabyBus wrote "In Verse 3 and 4, Baby actively shows that he/she wants to play with a facility (with reference to

211. Comparison of Videos. I reviewed both BabyBus' "Yes Yes Playground Song" and CoComelon's "Yes Yes Playground Song" and it is my opinion that BabyBus made the scenes "as similar as possible to Cocomelon" as BabyBus planned. In my opinion, BabyBus' "Yes Yes Playground Song" is substantially similar because it copies expression that includes the videos design, cinematography, shot structure, story events, storytelling sequence, poses, layout, compositions, and acting choices. A detailed list of CoComelon expression copied by BabyBus' "Yes Yes Playground Song" can be found in Appendix 4. Below are example comparative screenshots:

The Colors Song (with Popsicles)

214. It is my opinion that BabyBus’ “Rainbow Ice Cream – Colors Song”¹⁹⁹ is a copy of CoComelon’s “The Colors Song (with Popsicles).”²⁰⁰ My opinion is based on both the evidence of direct copying produced in this Action and my assessment after comparing the videos produced in this matter that the two videos are substantially similar.

215. Comparison of Videos. I reviewed both BabyBus’ “Rainbow Ice Cream – Colors Song” and CoComelon’s “The Colors Song (with Popsicles)” and it is my opinion that BabyBus’ video is a copy of the CoComelon video. 219. Development Documents. Car Wash Song

226. Development Documents. BabyBus produced a planning document for its "Car Wash Song" dated April 1 with a last modified date of April 24, 2019.²¹⁵ This development document contains six screenshots from CoComelon's videos, including four from CoComelon's "Car Wash Song" and two from CoComelon's "Laughing Song." 227. Comparison of Videos. I reviewed both BabyBus' "Car Wash Song" and CoComelon's "Car Wash Song" and it is my opinion that BabyBus' video is a copy of the CoComelon video. Screenshot comparisons of the two videos are attached to this report as Appendix 9. In my opinion, BabyBus' "Car Wash Song" is substantially similar because it copies expression that includes the videos design, cinematography, shot structure, story events, storytelling sequence, poses, layout, compositions, and acting choices. A detailed list of CoComelon expression copied by BabyBus' "Car Wash Song" can be found in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 5.

228. Accordingly, BabyBus' "Car Wash Song" is substantially similar to, and therefore infringes, at least U.S. Copyright No. PA0002191424 (Car Wash Song). For the reasons described below and in Appendix 4, it also infringes CoComelon copyrights as detailed in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 5.

229. All of the above videos were published by BabyBus early on in the development of its channel, and represented extensive copies of some of CoComelon's most successful videos.²¹⁷

230. Each of Defendants' "Super JoJo Video Works"²¹⁸ infringes multiple elements of the CoComelon Works.

231. As described in the preceding section, BabyBus created many of its earliest Super JoJo Video Works through extended copying of entire plots and visual sequences from specific CoComelon videos, such as CoComelon's "The Boo Boo Song," "Yes Yes Vegetables Song" and "The Colors Song (with Popsicles)."

232. In addition, BabyBus has also made many Super JoJo Video Works that even if they do not copy CoComelon videos entirely frame-by-frame, they copy CoComelon expression by copying specific plots, settings, sequence of events, character posing, shot composition, song structures and titles from other CoComelon videos. I detail these substantial similarities in the works in Appendix 4.

233. Beyond that, all of BabyBus' Super JoJo Video Works – even the ones that BabyBus has identified as least infringing -- copy one or more of Plaintiffs' CoComelon characters, such as JJ and JJ's family members, mom, dad, sister YoYo, and brother TomTom, including as they are named, depicted and developed, selected, and arranged in CoComelon videos. All Super JoJo Video Works also copy multiple expressive elements of the look and feel and cinematography of CoComelon, including various elements of plot, themes, dialogue, mood, setting, colors, pacing, sequence of events, camera angles, and precise character movements contained CoComelon videos that depict and develop the CoComelon characters.

234. It is my opinion, based on my comparison of CoComelon's copyrighted works with BabyBus' Super JoJo videos and development documents, that all Super JoJo Video Works are substantially similar to one or more of the CoComelon Works asserted in this action. A list of substantially similar elements may be found in Appendix 4, Part 1, and a chart detailing which substantially similar elements are present in which accused Super JoJo Video Work may be found in Appendix 4, Part 2.

235. As a threshold matter, it must be understood that because these are computer animations, BabyBus' actions in copying the characters, frames, visuals, sequences, animation style, and cinematography of the CoComelon Video Works in the earliest Super JoJo works meant that it was able to generate models, assets, sets, and populate a library of animations more quickly and easily than it could have if it made them from scratch.²¹⁹ In copying the CoComelon videos precisely, BabyBus could tune its animation models and tools to mimic the precise movement and quality of CoComelon characters and tweak their product to mimic the overall total concept and feel of the CoComelon Video Works. Then, once BabyBus generated the Super JoJo models, assets, sets, and a library of animations, BabyBus could re-use such assets, tools, libraries and learning to easily generate further videos mimicking the behaviors and movement of CoComelon characters, which is evidenced in each of the Accused Super JoJo Videos as enumerated in Appendix 4, Part 2.²²⁰ In this fashion, every Super JoJo Video Work is a derivative of the earliest Super JoJo Video Works that were created by frame by frame copying of CoComelon Video Works, as described above.

236. It is my opinion that all of the Super JoJo Video Works contain expression that is substantially similar to expression in the CoComelon Video Works and Registration Nos. VAu1379978 and VAu1322038 because they contain the JoJo character, who is both a copy of and substantially similar to CoComelon's JJ character.

- a. It is my opinion that the look and feel of BabyBus' JoJo character is substantially similar to CoComelon's JJ with respect to visual features and physical characteristics of the characters. For example, both BabyBus' JoJo character and CoComelon's JJ character have (1) a similar expression of a large, rounded head, (2) a monolithic, monicolor tuft of hair above forehead that is sculpturally shaped with a pronounced curl, (3) thin rounded opaque eyebrows, (4) extra-large eyes with rounded top lid and flattened bottom lid, large irises and pupils, (5) a button nose with no bridge, (6) two front upper teeth, (7) thin lips on a mouth that is a often a half-moon smile, and (8) a comparatively small body in relation to the head.²²¹

- b. In my opinion, these similarities are deliberate. In examining the BabyBus designs that were created during the development of the series, I noticed that their choices trended towards designs that resembled the look and feel of CoComelon. This is typified in the removal of JoJo's full head of hair despite multiple design documents as described in documents cited above urging that the character should have a full head of hair. I have seen (and listed above) many versions of JoJo that were produced with full heads of hair, only for BabyBus to choose one of the relatively small number of designs that had a similar look and feel to JJ's hairstyle.
- c. As I have detailed above, it is my opinion that BabyBus made its 3D model for JoJo by specifically altering a purchased 3D character model to make it appear more like CoComelon's JJ. Indeed, BabyBus' corporate representative agreed that BabyBus did "look at CoComelon's JJ character when designing and developing the JoJo Image.”²²² My analysis is detailed in Appendix 10. This analysis confirms my opinion that when editing the design of their JoJo character, BabyBus made decisions that brought the design of JoJo closer to Cocomelon’s JJ.

- d. In copying several CoComelon videos during their initial production process, the Super JoJo series chose to make the JoJo character substantially similar to CoComelon’s JJ with respect to the conceptual qualities of the characters. This in turn meant that the Super JoJo series would have a main character whose unusual defining characteristics are a clone of CoComelon’s JJ. JJ appears to be a young baby, wearing a bib and being fed in a highchair, he also walks on two legs with ease, dances, speaks in full sentences, sings, and seems to understand all that is said to him. Giving JoJo the unusual personality and abilities of JJ has greatly influenced the types of stories that can be told with this series, affecting the series far beyond the initial knockoff episodes.
- e. As described above, I have noted numerous occasions on which BabyBus has identified visual expressions of JJ to copy in planning documents, or copied JJ’s visual expressions in copying a CoComelon video. BabyBus has conceded that such visual expressions are saved and reused.²²³
- f. Once copied, models and expressions were reused from video to video so all Accused Super JoJo Videos mimic the CoComelon characters in the same fashion.²²⁴
- g. In Appendix 4, Part 2, I detail the elements of physical and conceptual expression relating to the JJ character that have been copied by Super JoJo, and detail which elements are found in each of the Super JoJo Video Works.

237. It is my opinion that all of the Super JoJo Video Works that contain any of the Super JoJo family characters (mom, dad, eldest brother, middle sister) contain expression that is substantially similar to expression in the CoComelon Video Works and Registration No. VAu1322038 (entire family) and VAu001307362 (TomTom) to the extent they contain the eldest brother character, because the Super JoJo family is substantially similar to the CoComelon family characters. The registered copyrights for CoComelon videos also include a dog named Bingo as part of the CoComelon family.

- a. It is my opinion that the look and feel of BabyBus’ Super JoJo family characters are substantially similar to the CoComelon family characters with respect to visual features and physical characteristics of the characters. Both BabyBus’ Super JoJo family characters and the CoComelon family characters depict a family of light-skinned characters with similar general color and range and similar shapes (e.g., mostly rounded edges with the notable exception of hair). The Super JoJo family members have substantially similar rounded faces and body shapes, eyes, lips, noses and other facial features, and the same type of chunky hair and hairstyles as the corresponding CoComelon family members.

- b. Although the original designs of the BabyBus family characters were already substantially similar to the CoComelon family characters, BabyBus also redesigned some of the family characters to even more closely resembled the look and feel of CoComelon. For example, one of the differences between the family characters was that the initial design of JoJo's father was recognizably Asian.²²⁵ However, BabyBus redesigned JoJo's father to a depiction that is less recognizably Asian and more like JJ's father.²²⁶ This design decision removed one of the more noticeable design differences between Super JoJo and CoComelon. Yet again, when presented with a variety of design choices, BabyBus chose the designs that more closely emulated the look and feel of CoComelon.
- c. It is also my opinion that the BabyBus family characters are also substantially similar to the CoComelon family characters with respect to the conceptual qualities of the characters. For example, both families engage in extreme cooperation in performing repetitive tasks, patiently instruct children in necessary life skills, and show a similar, narrow range of positive emotions. Further, the overall family dynamic is substantially similar. The Super JoJo and CoComelon sister character is quick-witted, the Super JoJo and CoComelon brother character is considerate, and both Super JoJo and CoComelon siblings are unusually patient and kind. Both the Super JoJo and CoComelon mother character is source of clever and creative activity, is passionate and cheerful caretaker of family, and is realistic and relatable. The Super JoJo and CoComelon father character is goofy, playful, and loving, and often functions in a similar role as the children rather than more serious parental figure. Both families revolve around the central character of the baby, and the focus of all family members in the videos is to help and encourage that main character. Much of this can be traced back to the initial frame-by-frame copied videos, as the personalities of the family characters were established by stories, actions, situations, poses, facial expressions and relationships copied from CoComelon.
- d. The family also includes a family dog named "Bingo," and a cast of animal characters who dance and play with the family in their adventures and "help" the parents instruct JJ and his siblings in life lessons.
- e. In Appendix 4, Part 2, I detail the elements of physical and conceptual expression relating to the CoComelon family characters that have been copied by Super JoJo, and detail which elements are found in each of the Super JoJo Video Works.

²²⁵ Exhibit 20 (BB_00046093 at -100)

²²⁶ Exhibit 13 (BB_00009775)

238. It is my opinion that all of the Super JoJo Video Works contain expression that is copied from and substantially similar to the original expression of CoComelon's look and feel in the CoComelon Video Works.

- a. It is my opinion that this copying was deliberate, as BabyBus planning department employees have stated that their intention and plan was for their channel to copy the look and feel of CoComelon. See Jiachun Xue Depo. Tr. at 56:18-57:3, 57:5-7 ("I believe that the --- the planning document wanted to have to create a look and feel similar to CoComelon's.")
- b. One consequence of the way that BabyBus copied the compositions and arrangements of characters in several CoComelon videos was that the overall layout of the home setting designs of the CoComelon environment were copied too, making the layout of the two houses functionally similar. The two environments share an overall look and feel, with bright colors, rounded edges, soft lighting, as well as floorplan layouts that are very functionally similar. There are many specific similarities with the CoComelon and Super JoJo homes as well, such as the bathrooms both having blue tile with nautical designs and white-rimmed clawfoot tubs with cool exterior colors. Both JJ and Super JoJo's bedrooms have white cribs, blue patterned sheets, oversized stuffed animals, cool-colored walls with cloud designs, a wind-up mobile, and a whale motif as a wall decoration. Both backyards have a white picket fence, a large tree on one side, a raised patio area, a striped umbrella and pool.²²⁷
- c. Regarding the initial production of direct knockoff videos based on CoComelon's original videos, this approach acted as a shortcut for BabyBus, saving costly development and effort, and allowed BabyBus to benefit from CoComelon's creative work, proven success, risk-taking, writing, storyboarding, animation, design, and creativity without taking the time to develop their own work. See Appendices 5-9. In my opinion, the level of copying in the Super JoJo Video Works is far beyond the industry norm, visible to even a casual observer.
- d. In Xiangyin Lin's Deposition, when she says that the storyboarding department's extensive use of CoComelon material in the storyboarding department's own work

“was for the story boarding department to do it in this way is the way of trying to slack off or be lazy.”²²⁸ It appears that the planning department and supervisors at Babybus used CoComelon's work in a similar way. It is shocking to me that this use was so widespread and shameless at all levels of BabyBus production, without any awareness or acknowledgement of the problematic nature of this level of copying, and that the copying was approached in such a systematic fashion, with planning documents noting that the BabyBus production should be as similar as possible to CoComelon, giving numerous screen captures, and YouTube links for reference.²²⁹

- e. Another added benefit that BabyBus gained in copying CoComelon videos was to build their own asset library. The first several episodes that are produced in a 3D animated series are often the most difficult and expensive. This is because the crew is making mistakes and discovering their style, but also because most of the things that appear in the first few episodes are appearing for the first time. It might take weeks of labor to design a 3D house and all the elements inside, but once it's made, it can be re-used over and over again without additional labor. This library allowed BabyBus to re-use elements, making their subsequent episodes easier and cheaper to produce.
- f. Evidence of BabyBus's asset library can be found across multiple development documents showing prop lists of 3D elements created for their various knockoff videos, and elements from these lists are reused for later videos.²³⁰ In one instance, a prop list introduces the characters of the stuffed cat, rabbit, elephant, and sheep, which later become fully sentient characters in later episodes.²³¹
- g. Evidence of the BabyBus asset library can also be seen in images of facial expression libraries used by animators.²³² Since a 3D character's face can contain many different animate-able controls (at least three on each eyebrow!) it's very helpful to save a library of pre-posed facial expressions.
- h. Further evidence of the BabyBus asset library can be clearly seen in their re-use of characters and settings such as JoJo, the mother, father, sister, and brother and their home, during many episodes of the Super JoJo videos. This is also evident, though less noticeable, in their re-use of secondary characters. Since the construction of an animatable character is one of the most labor-intensive and costly parts of the 3D animation process, these background characters are re-used whenever possible. For example, the "Old MacDonald" character that appears in

- i. The Super JoJo Video Works also exhibit substantial similarity to CoComelon Video Works in their overall animation style, which copies CoComelon's observational, gentle, and playful style, and are focused on realistic and generally non-exaggerated visuals that will draw the attention of and resonate with children. The Accused Super JoJo Videos also copy from CoComelon Video Works the use of repeated gestures and dance moves in particular videos, and physical arrangements of the other characters in scenes and videos.
- j. The Super JoJo Video Works also emulate CoComelon Video Works in their use of subtitles incorporated into the design, similar color palettes, bright primary and secondary color design, distinct coloration, and characters and objects that are typically depicted without sharp edges.
- k. The Super JoJo Video Works also show substantial similarity in theme, mood, setting, pace, sequence and plot to CoComelon Video Works, as embodied in their copying of the consistent and predictable patterns expressed in CoComelon Video Works' visuals, songs, and focus on daily life activities. The Accused Super JoJo Videos copy CoComelon Video Works' emphasis on everyday interactions between the main JJ character and his family or pet, JJ's experience of life and the world mainly from within the bosom of that family and at home. Accused Super JoJo Videos include substantially similar themes and topics (family love, happiness, curiosity, everyday chores, self-care, nutrition, literacy, and communication) focusing on the daily activities of young children as they experience life and the world in the context of their family through depictions of children and their parents playing, singing and dancing together. The characters in the videos are mainly happy or neutral in mood, and apart from mild and passing discontent connected to a particular narrative (e.g., mild pain or distress from an injury that is treated), they are never mad, scared or overly agitated. The Accused Super JoJo Videos are also substantially similar to CoComelon Video Works structurally, in that they are generally two to three minutes long, including scenes that are matched to verses of songs. The songs have simple, repetitive, rhyming lyrics with added sound effects, such as children's laughter, and often feature questions and answers in a sing along response format. The songs generally feature regular rhythm, repeated use of instrumental interludes between verses, and occasionally eschew rhyme to fit the rhythm or use nonsense words at the end of lines to make them rhyme. The songs and videos generally narrate an everyday activity such as brushing teeth or getting injured, and often feature narrative structures wherein the main character and/or other members of the family participate in (or confront and overcome) a repetitive sequence of related everyday challenges in the course of the song. The overall concept and feel of CoComelon videos provide young children with a rich sensory stimulation and joyous experience in a comforting and safe environment for exploration.

- l. In addition, the Super JoJo Video Works with “Yes Yes” and “No No” in the titles (or based on a “Yes Yes” or “No No” focused song) additionally copy the titles, title structure, framework, sequences, mood, plot, pacing, themes and song structure of the unique CoComelon “Yes Yes” and “No No” series of videos (U.S. Copyright Nos. PA0002149483 and PA0002159137 (Yes Yes Vegetables Song); U.S. Copyright No. PA0002145951 (Yes Yes Playground Song); U.S. Copyright No. PA0002177791 (Yes Yes Bedtime Song); U.S. Copyrights No. PA0002177782 (“No No” Play Safe Song); U.S. Copyright No. PA0002149484 (“No No” Bedtime Song); U.S. Copyright No. PA0002177781 (“No No” Playground Song); U.S. Copyright No. PA0002177787 (“No No” Table Manners Song)), based on several original copyrighted songs that include “Yes Yes” or “No No” in the titles and lyrics that deal with a particular activity or experience (the CoComelon Song Works, U.S. Copyright Nos. SRu001310748 and SRu001317776). In each video, the main CoComelon character, JJ, is encouraged to engage in the given activity or experience—e.g. eating his vegetables, getting ready for bed, or playing on the playground—with the help of his family and, often, his stuffed animal friends. Each video in the series employs the same CoComelon song melody paired with lyrics that follow a distinct pattern adapted to the particular events in that video. The Super JoJo “Yes Yes” and “No No” videos copy these expressive elements.
 - m. In Appendix 4, I detail the elements of expression relating to the CoComelon look and feel that have been copied by Super JoJo, and detail which elements are found in each of the Super JoJo Video Works.
239. Additionally, Super JoJo’s cinematography style is copied from and substantially similar to CoComelon’s cinematography.
- n. The Super JoJo Video Works also exhibit substantial similarity to CoComelon Video Works in their emulation of CoComelon’s distinctive cinematography style, including in their pacing of edits (shots are generally of short or medium length), composition (heavily featuring low subjective angles, and very rarely going above eye-level), distance of shots (mostly close-ups, some medium shots, and very rarely long shots), predominant use of wide angle camera lenses, soft indirect lighting and the frequent use of camera movement, incorporating camera movement in most shots.
 - o. In addition to copying the CoComelon videos, BabyBus set out to thoroughly copy the look and feel of the CoComelon channel. In this process, they produced such material as BB_00029732. It consists of CoComelon’s “The Boo Boo Song” video, but with a lyrically similar BabyBus song replacing the original CoComelon soundtrack. In the upper-left corner, there is an inset video showing drawings of a bird’s-eye view of the set from JoJo’s house, with added drawings that detail where the characters and camera should be placed in order for BabyBus artists to copy the CoComelon composition. This is very unusual. It is an analytical tool to pick apart the cinematography of CoComelon. It is the type of video I would expect to see in a film studies class, and not in an animation studio.

This is because it's not at all necessary to make this video in order to copy the shots from "The Boo Boo Song," as an animator would already have everything necessary to copy the camera placement and character posing of "The Boo Boo Song" by simply looking at the original CoComelon video and using it as a reference. BB_00029732 shows that, in addition to copying the videos, BabyBus was also analyzing the cinematographic style of the CoComelon videos, making it easier for them to copy the look and feel of the original CoComelon videos.

- p. In Appendix 4, I detail the elements of expression relating to the CoComelon cinematography that have been copied by Super JoJo, and detail which elements are found in each of the Super JoJo Video Works.

240. Consonant with the above, it is my opinion that even those videos that BabyBus has identified as "least infringing" both copy CoComelon and are substantially similar to it.

- a. I understand that the Court ordered BabyBus to provide three videos that it contended were "illustrative of the [alleged] non-infringement."²³³ I also understand that, in response, BabyBus contended that its "Happy Chinese New Year," "Butterfly Life Cycle Song," and "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star" videos were illustrative of non-infringement.²³⁴ I understand that, in a later filing, BabyBus contended that "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," "Steamed Buns," and "London Bridge is Falling Down" were also illustrative of its non-infringement contentions.²³⁵ In my opinion, all six of these videos are substantially similar to, and therefore infringe, one or more CoComelon Works.
- b. My opinion regarding the substantial similarity of "Happy Chinese New Year"²³⁶ is provided in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 74.
- c. My opinion regarding the substantial similarity of "Butterfly Life Cycle Song"²³⁷ is provided in Appendix 4, Part 2 at 49.

241. And as described above, many other videos copy additional content from CoComelon registered works, including combinations of their plots, themes, moods, settings, colors, pace, sequences of events, character posing and shot composition, song structures and titles, and are additionally substantially similar for this reason as well:

- a. Doctor Checkup Song²⁴² (substantially similar in title, theme of children pretending to visit the doctor, plot and sequences of baby as the doctor giving checkups to the brother and sister, checking their height then weight, character posing and shot composition in multiple frames, and lyrics about checking height and weight, as in U.S. Copyright No. PA0002181041 (Doctor Checkup Song), issued April 3, 2019);
- b. One Potato, Two Potatoes²⁴³ (substantially similar in title, theme of children learning to prepare and cook potatoes, plot and sequence of washing, peeling, boiling, mashing potatoes, and character posing and shot composition of children’s hands using a bright pink scrub brush to wash and to drop potatoes into boiling water, use of large rectangular raised bed-planter in backyard to grow potatoes), as in U.S. Copyright No. PA0002159136 (One Potato, Two Potatoes), issued January 21, 2019);
- c. Open Shut Them | Opposites Song²⁴⁴ (substantially similar in title, theme of teaching children about opposites, plot and sequences focusing on the opposites of hot/cold (using ice cream for cold), big/small (using stuffed animal), and fast/slow (using slow animal), and song structure (ice cream is cold, cold cold cold), as in U.S. Copyright No. PA0002146866 (Opposites Song), issued November 19, 2018);
- d. - e. - j. Winter Song (Fun in the Snow)²⁵² (substantially similar in subject matter, composition, posing, facial expression and general look and feel, story moments including sledding and making two different snowmen, near identical camera shots including bird's eye view of family lying on the snow), as U.S. Copyright No. PA0002181080 (Winter Song (Fun in the Snow)), issued April 3, 2019).
- k. - l. Old MacDonald Had a Farm (substantially similar in selection of characters in the video, the selection and order of featured animals and visual expression of a baby brushing a horse, with a mustached farmer wearing a hat and a flannel shirt holding the baby up to a brown horse for brushing with a bright blue brush—at 242. In addition, in my opinion the Super JoJo YouTube Channels²⁵⁴ and channel webpages copied and are substantially similar to CoComelon's YouTube channel and channel webpages.

- a. Each Super JoJo YouTube Channel additionally infringes CoComelon Video Works and CoComelon Character Works through each of its webpages, which generally display a large banner image at the top of the webpage and thumbnail images for each Super JoJo Video that feature infringing Super JoJo Characters, and that further emulate the settings, color palettes, bright primary and secondary color design, distinct coloration, and characters and objects depicted without sharp edges as presented in CoComelon Video Works.²⁵⁵ Further, all Super JoJo YouTube Channel webpages and banner images that display images of one or more of the Super JoJo Characters (Baby JoJo, his sister, brother, mother, or father) that copy and are substantially similar to one or more of Plaintiffs' registered copyrights in the CoComelon Character Works listed above (VAu001379978, VAu001322038, VAu001307362, and also VAu001319613 if they include certain animal or stuffed animal characters), and copy and are substantially similar to expressive content in the CoComelon Video Works, as these copyright registrations feature, cover and develop visual renditions of the CoComelon characters, including JJ and JJ's family members, mom, dad, older sister YoYo, and older brother TomTom, and various animal and stuffed animal characters, because the Super JoJo Characters are visually substantially similar to the corresponding CoComelon characters, and indeed have been designed to be substantially similar to CoComelon in their visual features, physical characteristics, and look and feel as described above.
- b. Additionally, thumbnail images for numerous specific Super JoJo Videos (including, those identified above as specifically copying certain plots, themes, dialogue, sequences of events, and precise character acting and movement from CoComelon Video Works) additionally infringe the CoComelon Works by featuring excerpts, screenshots, or images otherwise based on the underlying Super JoJo Video Work. See Appendix 11.²⁵⁶
- c. In addition, the Super JoJo YouTube Channels also infringe CoComelon Works by compiling, aggregating, displaying, advertising, and making available copies of the Super JoJo Videos, which as above, I believe are all copies, derivatives, and substantially similar to CoComelon copyrighted works as described above and in Appendix 4.

²⁵⁵ See, e.g., MB279590; Exhibit 115, and testimony in Yan Depo. # 2 Tr. Re Exhibit 115.

²⁵⁶ Compare MB279590 (videos on main Super JoJo channel) with MB279638 (videos on main CoComelon channel).

- d. In addition, it is my opinion that any and all other Super JoJo channels or applications that display banner images containing Super JoJo characters, thumbnail images containing Super JoJo characters or excerpts from Super JoJo Videos, or that aggregate, display, advertise, and make available Accused Super JoJo Videos, all additionally infringe CoComelon copyrights for the same reasons I have stated above. For example, I see that webpages for BabyBus' Google Play Store BabyBus TV: Kids Videos & Games" application and multiple Super JoJo games²⁵⁷ and BabyBus' Super JoJo application on the Apple Play Store²⁵⁸ both display banner images and other images of Super JoJo characters, and state that they contain copies of hundreds of Super JoJo Videos, which in turn copy and are substantially similar to CoComelon copyrighted content as described above.

243. I have reviewed BabyBus' responses to an interrogatory asking for its full basis for any contention BabyBus may make that it does not infringe any of the CoComelon Works,²⁵⁹ and note that those responses do not dispute the substantial similarity of Super JoJo Videos to CoComelon Works on an accused video-by-video basis (as previously set out in Moonbug's August 15, Second Supplemental Response to Interrogatory No. 2), but merely argue that all the similarities identified pertain to non-copyrightable expression. As set forth above, I disagree. I also consider this argument disingenuous in light of BabyBus' extensive copying of precise elements of expression in CoComelon Works as described above, in light of BabyBus' decision not to modify the JoJo character when the other characters were modified,²⁶⁰ and in light of BabyBus employee testimony admitting that recognizable CoComelon expression was being copied. For example, on April 21, 2021, Xiaohui Chen stated, "I recommended that in the future do not let people see so obviously that the reference video(s) are copied with no change made to them at all. Cocomelon and others are all in here now, even some originals appeared here and there in here. What would viewers perceive BabyBus as then?"²⁶¹

244. To the extent that BabyBus points to its pre-production development documents²⁶² to claim that it independently created Super JoJo, I disagree that they support such a claim. In my experience, pre-production documents generally share certain elements. For instance, they usually provide details about the proposed characters, describe the worlds that the characters inhabit, and list some sample episode ideas or synopses. But the BabyBus development documents are sparse on detail and provide only very surface level sketches. It would be difficult for a large team to launch a production of any size based on such sparse documentation, because the individual artists on the team need clear direction so that their own ideas and styles don't drive the characters and production in different directions, and the series and characters stay consistent from episode to episode. I can't overstate the importance of clear documents and direction in defining the style and content of a large studio early in production. In my opinion, the lack of a detailed pre-production bible for Super JoJo, together with the fact that its initial episodes included frame-by-frame copies of CoComelon videos, undermines BabyBus' claim that it independently developed Super JoJo.²⁶³

245. My opinions are bolstered by the presence of a detailed design document in BabyBus' production from about a year into Super JoJo production, after the animation of over 100 episodes.²⁶⁴ This document, with over 120 pages of full-color images, character descriptions, personality graphs, likes and dislikes, and images of their world, is the kind of character bible I would have expected to be created at the start of the production. But for Super JoJo, it only appears after a year and after over one hundred episodes had been produced. In my opinion, the lack of a similarly detailed pre-production bible for Super JoJo suggests that BabyBus used the CoComelon videos as its Super JoJo design bible, rather than independently developing a vision for the show.

246. My opinions are also bolstered by the abundance of CoComelon artwork in the Babybus development documents. The number of CoComelon images is often close or equal to the number of BabyBus images. Considering these are development documents for a new series, I would expect the artwork to consist mainly of original Babybus artwork. The development documents' heavy reliance on CoComelon artwork and imagery also undermine any claim of independent development.

247. My opinions are also bolstered by the way Super JoJo development documents preferentially reference a single existing property – CoComelon – both in text, Youtube links, and with captured images from CoComelon videos. It is normal to occasionally reference the work of competitors in such documents, but it is unusual and troubling to reference a single competitor so heavily. For example, the BabyBus documents I cite above from early and mid-2018 make it clear that BabyBus is aware of multiple children's channels, but yet it focuses exclusively on CoComelon in pre-production documents, and almost exclusively on CoComelon in production documents.²⁶⁵

248. To the extent BabyBus may assert that the redesign of the Super JoJo characters and environment after Xunjie Zhang took over as Team Leader of the Planning Department addressed or reduced the degree of Super JoJo's copying and substantial similarity to copyrighted CoComelon Works, I disagree. In my opinion, the documentation and testimony regarding this redesign suggest to me that BabyBus was well aware of the substantial similarity between Super JoJo and CoComelon, and in this redesign, doubled down in its efforts to copy Cocomelon.

²⁶³ For example, BB_00045954 Does not refer to Super JoJo by name, or with anything more specific than "IP settings: A family (baby, father, mother, older brother, and older sister), pets, toys (immersive), and animals." However, the document does mention in a section on "References" that the references would be BabyBus's use of CoComelon as a target seems to pre-date their use of the Super JoJo character. CoComelon is the only outside property referenced in this document.

²⁶⁵ For example compare Exhibit 113 (BB_00052710, pre-production research document with multiple competitor videos listed), with BB_00045954 (development document in which CoComelon is the only existing property referenced).

- a. I understand that Ms. Zhang testified that she chose to redesign almost every element of the series because she “wanted to make it more like a cartoon.”²⁶⁶ But in my experience, it is very unusual to redesign show mid-production, because both kids and adults generally find comfort and develop affection for the programs they watch and changing the design of these programs and characters can risk the connection that has been built with the audience.
- b. It is also unusual to redesign an ongoing show because the development of sets, scenery, characters, props, and animation is a major expense in the production of 3D animation. Significant savings come from the re-use of preexisting elements. Re-creating visual elements in a series is very expensive. There are costs in training as well. A crew that has practice in animating with specific characters for over 100 episodes, will have to re-learn to animate with the idiosyncrasies of new characters, and this will slow down production, possibly increasing the cost. The crew might also be discontented at being asked to toss out every visual element they created in favor of new designs created by an outside company because the Planning Department leadership wanted the series to be “more like a cartoon.”
- c. It is also unusual to redesign an ongoing show because it causes the series to have less visual cohesion among the different episodes. The series might then be perceived as two different programs, or the same program targeted at two different audiences, which could affect viewership.
- d. So, it is my assessment that for a series to be completely re-designed in the middle of production, the Planning Department must have thought they had a very important reason to weather the expense, slow-down, and possible discontent from their crew and the viewing audience. BabyBus testimony suggests to me one of these reasons was a desire to bring the Super JoJo animation style even closer to CoComelon’s. For example, Ms. Zhang testified that one of the main differences between CoComelon’s “Yes Yes Vegetables” video and Super JoJo’s copy (also called “Yes Yes Vegetables”), was that the CoComelon animation had “more of a cartoon style” and Super JoJo’s had “more of a modern style.”²⁶⁷ As Ms. Zhang explained in her deposition that she wanted to make Super JoJo look “more like a cartoon,” it appears this redesign was intended to bring the Super JoJo series design even closer to CoComelon’s.²⁶⁸
- e. In the redesign, Super JoJo’s family characters all changed quite a bit. All gained more cartoony designs - bigger heads, more exaggerated features, brighter colors. However, one character’s redesign, Super JoJo himself, was barely noticeable. His head was made proportionally larger in relation to his body, and some details were tweaked, but to a casual observer, he seems unchanged.²⁶⁹ This is odd, because the redesign document introduced a new look for JoJo, with an unusual hat and a full head of hair.²⁷⁰ That proposed redesign was distinctive from the initial production version of Super JoJo and would have reduced the overlap with CoComelon's JJ character. BabyBus designers even provided mockups of the new Super JoJo design (with full head of hair).²⁷¹ However, this redesign was quickly abandoned in favor of giving JoJo's design at most a few minor tweaks. Though the drastic redesigns of the family were incorporated into production,²⁷² the redesign of the main Super JoJo character was watered down to the point of being barely noticeable. Indeed, Ms. Zhang stated in deposition that she believed the JoJo character was not modified, only optimized in ways "not easily seen by audience."²⁷³ Ms. Zhang further stated that the redesigned JoJo was abandoned because "we were concerned whether the audience would be able to accept the new design. Maybe it will conflict with the existing conception --- or existing perception of the Super JoJo character in people's mind."²⁷⁴ In my opinion, this testimony further confirms that the redesign was not meant to alleviate or address JoJo's substantial similarity to CoComelon's JJ character. As BabyBus apparently recognized, it is very difficult to redesign the main character of a series and have that redesign accepted by the audience. In this way, BabyBus' creation of its Super JoJo series by copying the CoComelon series meant Super JoJo's audience was conditioned to expect Super JoJo to feature a character that was a carbon copy of CoComelon's JJ, and made that character difficult to change.

- f. In addition, I note that the redesign also had the effect of moving the Super JoJo settings closer to CoComelon's. For example, in the initial design of the Super JoJo home, though the layout of the home was very similar as described above,²⁷⁵ I noted the following small differences: The CoComelon bathroom had a bathtub across from the sinks, while the Super JoJo bathroom had a bathtub to the side of to the sinks. The CoComelon backyard had a treehouse, while the Super JoJo backyard lacked a treehouse. In the CoComelon kitchen, the sink is in the counter while the Super JoJo kitchen has a sink in the center island. These differences were all removed in the redesign, with the addition of a treehouse in the backyard, moving the kitchen sink off the center island, and making the bathtub across from the sinks.²⁷⁶
- g. Accordingly, I conclude that the goal of the Super JoJo redesign was not to address or remove any of the substantial similarities between CoComelon and Super JoJo. To the contrary, although the redesign instituted a number of noticeable changes, none of them erased the substantial similarities that already existed, and in fact, many of the instituted changes deliberately made Super JoJo's design more like CoComelon.

249. BabyBus distributes the Super JoJo videos in the United States.²⁷⁷ BabyBus uses YouTube for hosting and global distribution of Super JoJo videos.²⁷⁸ Super JoJo videos that BabyBus uploads to YouTube are available on BabyBus' YouTube channel.²⁷⁹ Mr. Yan has confirmed that the videos on BabyBus' Super JoJo Nursery Rhymes channel were uploaded to YouTube by employees of BabyBus under BabyBus' control, made available to viewers in the United States, and that BabyBus selected the location of the Super JoJo – Nursery Rhymes & Kids Songs channel as the United States.²⁸⁰ Mr. Yan confirmed that BabyBus controls the ability to take Super JoJo videos off the Super JoJo channel, and when it does so, they are no longer available to viewers anywhere in the world.²⁸¹ Mr. Yan confirmed that when Super JoJo videos are uploaded to YouTube, they are viewable throughout the world where YouTube services are available.²⁸²

250. I have reviewed screenshot document produced in this case that show that Super JoJo videos accused of infringement in this case were available on YouTube to viewers in the United States and so could be accessed in the United States.²⁸³

For all but two, it is in the top ten. Every channel has been viewed over 2 million times by a viewer in the United States.

C. BabyBus Defense

253. I understand that Moonbug sent a cease and desist letter to BabyBus asserting that the Super JoJo videos infringed Moonbug’s CoComelon copyrights around July 20, 2021.

254. Shortly after Moonbug’s cease and desist letter to BabyBus, in a message dated August 12, 2021, Zhang Xunjie sent a text message to Xue Jiachun that reads “Is there any JoJo earlier than Coco, can counterclaim?”²⁸⁵

255. On August 12, 2021—the same day as the message about a potential “counterclaim” from Zhang Xunjie to Xue Jiachun—BabyBus registered its “DouDou” character in China.²⁸⁶

256. I understand that BabyBus claims in this case that it created a “DouDou” character in 2016, “which was the basis for the 3-D Model that became JoJo in 2019.”²⁸⁷

²⁸⁵ BB_00094779 (machine translation).

²⁸⁶ BB_00098190; BB_00098193.

²⁸⁷ BabyBus’ Answer to Amended Complaint, Affirmative Defenses ¶ 1-2 (Docket No. 92). Lin Depo. Tr. at 70:5–71:15.

Docket No. 22 at page 2 (“BabyBus’ DouDou”).

257. BabyBus’ witnesses Lei Sun testified that he was “involved in the entire process” of developing JoJo, but that he was not aware of a single document that refers to both DouDou and JoJo.²⁸⁸ During deposition, Lei Sun explained that BabyBus looked through images pulled from the company’s internal databases.²⁸⁹ But he was not aware of any documents referencing both JoJo and DouDou.²⁹⁰

258. During deposition, Xiaohui Chen additionally explained that when designing the JoJo character, his only reference to the DouDou character was from memory of a video he claimed to have watched online.²⁹¹ I have not been provided the link that he accessed or a copy of the video from that platform that he claimed to have watched, and so I cannot assess that video. He also testified that this version of JoJo that he drew was not the one ultimately used for the JoJo design.²⁹²

259. On the other hand, there are extensive references to CoComelon and its JJ character in BabyBus’ development documents.²⁹³ If DouDou was, in fact, the basis for the design of JoJo, I would expect to see at least one reference to DouDou in the design documents for JoJo. However, I have not found or seen any documents among BabyBus’ documents produced in this litigation, or any other evidence, that supports BabyBus’ contention that DouDou was used in the creation of JoJo or that otherwise show any connections between DouDou and JoJo.

260. I understand that BabyBus also now claims that “The development of the Super JoJo character was an independent endeavor,” and that BabyBus “designed the original 2-D drawing of the Super JoJo characters, including JoJo and his mother, father, brother, sister, and dog based on the prior BabyBus 2-D character DouDou.”²⁹⁴ But as I have explained above, the original 2-D drawings of the JoJo character do not resemble the JoJo character that appears in the 3D Super JoJo videos. That character, in my opinion, was designed to emulate CoComelon’s JJ.

261. My opinion is bolstered by my review of BabyBus' Second Supplemental Response to Interrogatory No. 8.²⁹⁵ In that response, BabyBus listed BB_00098364 and BB_00098365 as documents regarding the development of the Super JoJo Character.²⁹⁶ I have reviewed these documents and confirmed that they contain copies of CoComelon's "Peek A Boo Song."²⁹⁷
